Please join us in prayer for her family and for Kari to have a peaceful journey into the arms of our Lord and Savior, Jesus Christ.

The Stroschein Family was featured in the August 15 issue of Rodeo News, on page 29.

START PLANTING

article by Corey Ross

"Being born again, not of corruptible seed, but of incorruptible, by the word of God, which liveth and abideth for ever." 1 Peter 1:23

You won't really get excited about the Word of God until you realize that it's more than just a collection of divinely inspired promises. It's a living force that literally carries within it the power to make those promises become a reality in your life.

Is it tough for you to believe such a thing is possible? It shouldn't be. You see it happen in the natural world all the time.

If I were to put a tomato seed in your hand and tell you that within that tiny, dry seed lies the power to produce a stalk thousands of times bigger than the seed, to produce leaves and roots and round, red tomatoes, you wouldn't have any trouble believing that, would you? You know from experience that even though that scrawny seed doesn't look like a tomato factory, somehow, given the right environment, it will become one.

Jesus says the Word of God works by that same principle. There's miraculous power within it. It is a seed that, once planted by faith in a human heart, will produce more blessings than you can imagine.

Once you grasp that, you'll get extremely excited about the Word of God. That's what happened to me.

Over 16 years ago, I caught a glimpse of what the Word could do. I caught a glimpse of the power within it.

I spent every possible moment in the Word of God because I wanted the power of that Word inside me more than I wanted anything else in the world. I knew it would blow the limits off my life, limits that had held me back and kept me down for years. I knew that when I read it, I wasn't just reading, I was planting seeds. Seeds of prosperity, seeds of health, seeds of protection, and seeds of victory for every area of my life.

Don't treat the Word of God like a book. It's not! It's spiritual seed that has the supernatural power within it to produce the harvest of a lifetime. Get excited about it and start planting today! 🌱

Style Bell - Some might think it would be hard to live up to the name Style Brazile but trust me when I say this little girl does just that! Having the King of the Cowboys Trevor Brazile as her dad and NFR Barrel Racer/ clothing designer Shada Brazile as her mom might give her the upper hand in the saddle but she has the style department roped all on her own. This little cowgirl is decked out in a pink shirt and jeans by Wrangler for kid's, a Relentless hat and Corral Boots for kid's. Style is also sporting some serious hardware that she won at the dummy roping in Reno, NV.

[TAKING LIFE BY THE STEERS HORNS]

story by Amy Witt

Winning the Ram National Circuit Finals in Guthrie, Okla. earlier this year, the young gun, Kyle Irwin, 24, from Robertsdale, Ala. has big goals for his steer wrestling career. Clocking a record-tying time of 3.3 seconds naming him the 2014 RNC-FR Champion, Irwin is confident and motivated with an eye on a gold buckle.

"I'm inspired by the people that succeed when the odds are stacked against them. No one person in particular, just anyone you might read or hear about that started from rock bottom and had nothing, then beat the odds and excelled tremendously. Just to prove that nothing is impossible."

Growing up around rodeo and cattle, Irwin began junior rodeo at the age of 11 competing in tie-down roping, chute dogging, and team roping. Irwin jumped his first steer at 13 years-of-age at Steve Duhon's Steer Wrestling School. Graduating from Northwestern Okla. State College, he was fortunate to have a mentor and coach, Stockton Graves. Graves taught Irwin not only about steer wrestling but about life and experiences. Traveling with Kody Woodard and Dru Melvin his senior year in college, he had the opportunity to ride Dru's horse, Moonshine. By riding

Moonshine, Irwin gained a tremendous amount of knowledge and confidence to keep pushing through any doubts about himself. Unbeknownst to Irwin, his adventure into a professional steer wrestler was headed in to a victorious one.

"I remember when I was in high school and signed with Western Okla. State College. The local newspaper wrote an article that read, Robertsdale High Senior Wrestles His Way to Higher Education. I never knew I had a chance to make a career out of the sport of steer wrestling. I had watched guys on TV making a career and I was in awe at how good they were. Now, I am able to pay my bills and enjoy this life that I had dreamed about."

This steer wrestler's year didn't start out so smooth, in fact he had no intentions on rodeoing. Staying home, working, and practicing would sum up his 2014 year. With the encouragement from his friend Tyler Pearson and practicing every day, things were about to change. A fire was lit under Irwin with the thought of only continuing the year out rodeoing if he won the Ram National Circuit Finals. In April, hard work and determination paid off when he was crowned the steer wrestling champion with blood running through his veins and the motivation and thrill of wanting more. On the road this year alone, Irwin has won over $55,000 including some jackpots and the big win. "The journey in the PRCA has been enjoyable," Irwin says.

In 2009, he received his permit and qualified for the Prairie Circuit Finals three times. He anticipates on qualifying for the fourth time this year. On his second rodeo entered on his permit in 2009, he placed second in Guymon, Okla. behind Josh Peek. It was his first time competing against guys he watched growing up like the greats, Luke Branquinho, Stockton Graves, Spud Duvall, and KC Jones. Since his purchase of his permit, the humble cowboy has racked up approximately $129,000 for his total PRCA career. By the end of December, his plans are to double or even triple those numbers.

On the road, he always makes sure to eat well and of course, enjoys a good steak. Playing golf also entertains Irwin and his traveling partners Tyler Pearson, Riley Duvall, and Rowdy Parrot. To get his blood pumping before nodding his head, Irwin loves when the rodeo announcer plays "Simple Man" by Lynyrd Skynyrd or even the obvious fitting song, "Sweet Home Alabama."

Irwin acknowledges some of his success this year to Sketch, Tyler Pearson's bull dogging horse who was previously owned by Steve Gains. This is his first year competing on Sketch and they make quite a good team. For the past three years, he has been riding Doc, a good horse owned by Riley Duvall.

When he is not practicing or on the road, Irwin is riding colts, day working, or helping his cousin frame houses or building fence. Not living far from the beach, he enjoys going out with some friends on the boat or fishing. He hopes to cross skydiving off of his bucket list soon.

In five years, Irwin envisions himself rodeoing, owning a home, and competing at Wrangler National Finals Rodeo for the fifth time as a consistent competitor. In ten years, the educated cowboy with a B.S. in Agriculture wants to be satisfied with his life and career with a few national titles under his belt.

Keep your eyes open for the down to earth, Alabama steer wrestler making his way to the top while living his dream!

Irwin's favorite quote, "Luck is when preparation meets opportunity." [Unknown author]

ON THE TRAIL with JD SCHULZE

story by Siri Stevens

JD (James Daniel) Schulze calls Brighton, Colo., home, but he is most at home in the arena. The rodeo clown spends the summer working rodeos in Colorado and surrounding states. “From June until the end of September I will have worked 63 performances,” said the 39-year-old single dad. “I’ve been home a couple days all summer.” His ten-year-old son, Landon James, travels with him on the weekends JD has him. “This year he’s really taken a part in wanting to help out with the acts.” One of JD’s acts, the Shrinking Machine, features Landon as the small version of JD. Landon plays baseball too, a sport that JD helps by being one of the coaches.

“When it comes to coaching, I really try to make it fun and have fun with the kids so they learn to love the game – and have fun – which in turn hopefully carries over to everyday life in all they do. In the rodeo arena, I’m there to be a goofball and be part of the bull fighting trio – the island of safety – that’s where the barrel man comes in.”

JD grew up on the Eastern side of Aurora, Colo., and the middle of Denver. His parents were divorced and he and his three older brothers split their time between the two houses. He also has three younger sisters. “It was my norm,” he said of having two homes. Growing up in the city, JD got his break into rodeo through friends who were bull riders. “I always loved the Western lifestyle and hanging out with friends that rode bulls got me started riding.” JD rode bulls until injuries took him out. He got another break when he was asked to fight bulls. “I took a good hooking the first night and that fired me up to come back.” He went from there to being asked to fill in as a barrel man. “I went to Saratoga, Wyoming, and did my first barrel man deal. Byron Juma really liked me, and so did Glen Southwick, and fifteen years later I’m still doing it.”

JD loves what he does. “When you see the families and the kids appreciate what you do – that’s what keeps you going. I’m always looking for new jokes. I do a lot of winter pondering.” During the winter is when he comes up with new acts and manufactures the things that go with them, a trade he attributes to his father’s machine shop. “When you bring something into the arena, you have to make sure it doesn’t fall apart. And when you do any kind of bang, you have to make sure there is no projectile from it. It has to look like a clown built it, but it has to be very stable and safe.

During the day, JD is a superintendent for Taylor Morrison. “From the day we dig the hole to the day the people close, I oversee the whole process,” he said. “My dad was an inventor so I was raised in a machine shop. We were always working on construction projects, and after high school, I started as an electrician with a neighbor. I learned a lot about construction from that job.” He moved from that to a construction job where he started out prepping houses for new homeowners.

His dad (Everett) came down with cancer and the machine shop was sold off to pay medical bills. He passed away in 2000. JD continued with his career in the construction business, working his way up the ladder to assistant superintendent and then he ended up running job sites. He and Kyle Ellis are currently overseeing 52 houses going up. “One house takes 60 trades to build and over 3 million parts to put together. So if you have a trade on each house, then everyday you’re watching 52 crews.” JD does everything from scheduling the crews to meeting with home owners; from overseeing all the contractors to managing the inspections – and learned how to do all of it without a college diploma. The humor he has learned being a rodeo clown has spilled over into his day job. “I always keep a good positive attitude and add a little humor. I find I get a lot more response and honesty out of the guys when I’m not mad – and that has helped me in all things in life.” His drive to work in construction is based on his desire to provide for his son. When he paints his face for his weekend gig – “I get pumped up when I get to go down the road. I can’t say it enough that I love what I do. I get to mingle with people, and the committee members. The hospitality of rodeo is amazing.”

JD would like to get his pro card. “I was fortunate to work the free style bull fights at the Greeley Stampede with Robbie Hodges, which really added the fire to my want my card,” he said. Until then, he is busy doing all the Colorado Professional rodeos, including the upcoming Finals, as well as rodeos in New Mexico, Wyoming, and Nebraska. At the end of the day, what he loves the most is getting rolled up in the barrel. “It sounds kooky, but when you’re out there getting hit and guys are getting away and safe – riding that barrel is one in a million – love it.”

JD plans to keep working, and building up money for retirement. “Beyond that, I want to be a good dad for my kid and keep rodeoing for as long as I can.”

Steel 'N' Cash Rodeo: Behind the Scenes

article by Carol Crowder

The month of September represents an 'end' to summer, the growing season, and finals time for many equine disciplines. For Mile Hi, it's the end of one year and the beginning of a new one and what better way to celebrate both than with lots of opportunity to win for big cash and prizes at the Steel 'N' Cash Barrel Race—Presented by Maverick Steel! This three-day event will have over $10K in added money and $20K in prizes! With an estimated payout that should exceed $75K!

An event is only as good as the folks that put it on and behind every GREAT event is a team of hard working folks aligned together with one goal in mind--SUCCESS! The Steel 'N' Cash Barrel Racing event is no exception! And what a HUGE and committed team we have! Starting with our sponsor, Maverick Steel (Ronnie, Tammi, Bailey and Wyatt Williams) joined forces with Mile Hi with one simple goal in mind: to ensure the return of the largest barrel racing event in Colorado in September of each year!

Our team of workers, our staff and ground crew, is the best around; they are second to none! To pull off an event of this nature requires minimal (and I do mean minimal) sleep...often times NO SLEEP literally for many of us. The hours are long, the demands are great, and the adrenaline is over the top!

Our Ground Crew is phenomenal! They work endless hours keeping the ground in great condition so WE CAN PLAY. It's important to keep in mind that most ground crews, gatemen, and etc aren't barrel racers. My crew is no exception; yet they come and rake, set barrels, work in the dirt so we can all play. A thank you with these folks goes a long LONG way!

You'll find our office crew to be masters at what they do; managing the entries, tracking times, rolling times, computing results, while meeting the needs and demands of the barrel racers who have elected to support the event! They recruit members, keep everyone straight, moving in the right direction and all on the same page! And, YES we all get tired and there are times we might appear to be 'short' forgive us it's just the lack of sleep coming thru!

Of great importance are those who are never really seen.....the ones who hang banners LONG BEFORE anyone arrives, gets the office set up, the stalls marked, all of our horses settled, and do the 'dirty' work. It is rare that they are ever really seen but are critical to our success. These folks are called on at a moment's notice to 'run down' somebody, get an RV out of the way, change a stall around, or whatever. They are professional reactors and defuse more issues than anyone can possibly think of. These folks could write a good book!

And, of course, the professional help.....folks such as our announcers, our marketing folks, our comic relief and entertainment. Each and everyone have their respective role AND perform it well! They study our organization, they understand our sport, and they highlight the successes and support and encourage the less fortunate. They set the tone for the day, keep us on time and moving forward.

Events of this magnitude take a team or a small army of folks and Mile Hi is proud to have the team we have in place. We have geared up and are ready to provide YOU ALL the best event possible and bring a fun close to summer in the Mile Hi Region! We look forward to seeing you all in September. 🍷

bottom: John and Lynn attended the National High School Finals in Rock Springs, Wyo., to promote the Rodeo Cowboy Alumni, which John is now the president. For more information on the Alumni and how you can become involved, call John at 361-701-9724. The annual convention is held during the WNFR at the Orleans Hotel.

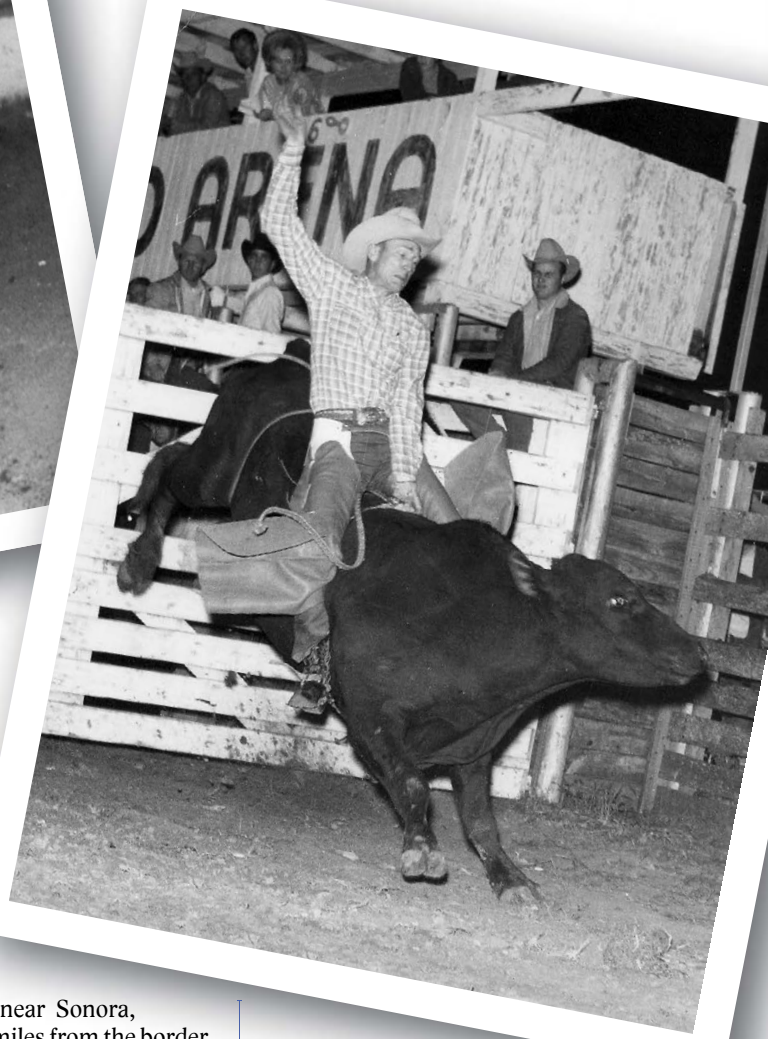

John Stokes was raised around an auction barn in Lubbock Texas that his dad owned. “Somebody was always daring you to do something you don’t normally do,” said John. “I was an aggravating kid back then.” He shared a story about shooting a bow and arrow at the neighbor kids after watching Little Beaver do it at the movies. “I got a good spanking.”

Born in 1939, he enjoyed life and as an only child, he tried many things at the sale barn that led him to raise, ride and fight bulls. “My dad sold cattle, horses, and calves and I remember we got 17 head of bucking horses, and 17 head of bulls that belonged to Gene Autry. They were there for Everett Colborn’s rodeos that were held in the college football field. My daddy trucked them over there.” Clyde had a trucking company as well as the auction barn on the north side of Lubbock. The auction barn had a straightaway race track and on Sundays they would have horse races. “My mule, Josephine, could outrun most of them,” he said. “I thought it was a neat deal — they would bring in bulls and calves and horses and we’d rope and ride.” He picked up his dad’s livestock trading skills and took it on with him into the rodeo world. “When I was rodeoing I’d buy bulls from one producer and sell to another one.”

He started competing in 1953 at Rising Star, Texas, as a small open rodeo. He entered the bull riding at the age of 13. Two years later, at the age of 15, he had his first “gig” as a clown/bullfighter at that same arena. When they came out with the Rodeo Cowboys Association permits in 1956, he ended up with one. “If you won money, you had to buy a card for $25. The First RCA rodeo I entered, in Taylor, Texas, I entered two in one weekend. It was a two head in the bull riding – I won $15, so I had to buy a card.” Like many bull fighters in his time, he showed up to ride at rising star event and the bull fighter didn’t show up, so they asked John to do it. “After that, I would get on my bull first, and then I’d fight bulls for everyone else. Some of those rodeos down in South Texas there would be thirty or forty bull riders – and I was the only bull fighter – I was pretty skinny and pretty quick.” He won many rodeos as a bull rider.

John attended Tarleton College in Stephenville, and in 1958 he was instrumental in helping form the first rodeo club at the school. That year he entered the Tarleton rodeo in bull riding, wild horse race, bulldogging and bareback – winning the All Around

He married Lynn Kirby, the girl down the street, who he had known since junior high. The two will celebrate being married for 50 years this coming January. They settled on a ranch near Sonora, Texas, ranching 90 miles from the border. Lynn went with him to all the rodeos after they were married.

John was drafted into the military, but he couldn’t serve due to his lack of hearing. “I got hit by lightning when I was 12 and that started my hearing problem. We had a rock barn, with jersey heifers. I’d come in from school and was down at the barn. Lightning hit the barn right next to me – I had a bad taste of sulfur in my mouth for six weeks – it killed a bunch of the heifers.”

He continued a trade that he started in high school “I got paid .35 an hour for welding when I was in high school, and I could see how gates worked from growing up in the sale barn and being around my daddy (Clyde Stokes).” John built a set of metal pens for a friend and that’s how his welding business started. “Over the period of years we built four different auction barns, repaired a large feed yard – all while I was rodeoing and ranching.”

Lynn and John had one daughter, Tamara Shane. His welding business ended up employing 20 people – 15 of them rodeoed. His bull fighting and riding slowed down, but he still wanted to go and rodeo – so he took up team roping and steer roping. “I learned how to rope as a kid – .it’s something I did every day of my life when I had cattle, sheep, and goats. It wasn’t hard to take what I did every day and put it in the arena. I roped left handed for a long time, but I got my finger mashed in a door, and had to start roping right handed.”

John not only went to ropings, he and Lynn started producing them in the 1978. “Our first roping we had at the ranch we had a progressive after six and we had two kids, one was 13 (Guy Allen), one was 14 (Tee Woolman), won the roping.” They produced ropings for fifteen years, and after they quit, John continued roping until he was 70. "I roped and tripped until five years ago," he said. "I spent 53 years in rodeo." During that time, he endured 88 broken bones.

He is still involved in the industry, raising bucking bulls – he has six coming two-year-olds that will be entered in futurity derbies for ABBI and UBBI. "All my cows are registered. All the bulls are out of our cattle and I trained them all. When I sell one for $5,000, I think I've made a lot of money! I train them and gentle them up. You can't sell a mean one. They are just like people – they've got their own little thing." John and Lynn enjoy their life on the ranch. "We ranched all our life, I don't think we'll ever get away from it. As long as the Lord lets us, we'll be in the cattle business." 🍷

I AM THE GREATEST

article by Laura Lambert

Well, if nothing else, the title probably got you to stop for a minute and take notice. I mean, who says that? Well, calm your fears, I am NOT going to be talking about me in fact, that's a really hard thing to get me to talk about.

If you travel very much you have some amount of time to listen to the radio. I seem to have quite a bit of time on the rodeo trail to do such task. Well-rounded is how I would describe my taste in music. I listen to everything from Eminem, Kid Rock, ZZ Top, George Strait, Christian – and the list goes on. My kids love it with confidence telling himself, "I am the greatest." In the end of the song after striking out, the boy says again to himself, "I am the greatest, but even I didn't know I could pitch like that."

Given that I was by myself, I got lost in thought thinking about what a wonderful story and meaning this song had. It made me think of my own kids. I want them to grow up having that kind of attitude. I don't want them to be cocky but I want them to know they are capable of anything they want to try. I want them to be confident. I wondered to myself how much different our world would be if every child was told they were the "greatest" and that they were "loved" every day of their life? I can only imagine (hey, that's the name of another awesome song you should listen to).

This train of thought led me back to horses. In all my years of riding and training I have always tried to build the confidence in a horse. I am by no means what I would call a horse whisperer but I'm also not one that believes in beating my theories into them. Horses excel at something when they are confident about what they are doing. When they are colts, they question their every move. My family will tell you I'm a softie when it comes to horses and animals in general. I will let them get away with a lot IF they perform the way they are trained in the arena.

Then I linked my two thinking lines – kids and horses. They are much the same when you think about it. We are training them in the ways of the world. They are in our hands and it is a big responsibility. You can make or break a child. You can make or break a horse. I don't believe in the every one's a winner attitude, because that's not the way of the world. Everyone doesn't get a trophy. We have to learn to succeed just like we have to learn to fail just as the child did in the song. But what an attitude he had when he failed at the original task. There are different ways of training for every person and every horse but in my world, I wondered how much more successes we would enjoy if we reinforced an, "I am the greatest," theory of teaching? 🐾 because when they are with me we can jam out to the latest pop music and I love it. Dad on the other hand prefers a little country in his life.

Until next time...
Ride tall He's always watching.

Not too long ago as I travelled across the country by myself I was changing stations and for whatever reason landed on the classic country station. A few songs in Kenny Rogers came on with a song called, I am the greatest. If you haven't heard it – go Google it, or find it somehow and listen to it. I could just picture in my mind a little boy standing on the ball field by himself. He throws the ball up and then takes a big swing – only to miss three times. Each time he wasn't deterred and carried on

The Lucas Family

story by Helen Smith

Met the Lucas family: Rich, Laura, and their children Allison (19), Mckayla (17), Jacqueline (14), Sam (13), and Lydia (8). Judging by their 12 horses, two horse trailers, and their collection of cowboy boots, a person might not guess that the Lucases just became rodeo people in 2009. The family acknowledges that their home in Jordan, Minn., is not the rodeo capital of the world - but they are doing their best to change that. "Minnesota is the land of ten thousand lakes, so it's all about hunting, ice fishing and boating," says Rich. Thus Rich and Laura and their children started a Little Britches franchise in Minnesota in 2013, calling it Little Britches Rodeo of Minnesota.

The beginning of the Lucas's journey to rodeo really started more than ten years ago. Although Rich had competed in barrels and poles as a child until fifth grade, Laura didn't have a background in horses. When their oldest daughter, Allison, turned eight, Allison's grandma, Nikki Lucas, bought her a pleasure pony named Annie. But Annie had no intention of being a pleasure pony, so Allison and her grandma trained the pony for games in the Western Saddle Club Association (WSCA).

Annie excelled in the WSCA, but Allison eventually outgrew her. The Lucases were acquainted with world champion barrel racer and two time WNFR qualifier Jane Melby, and she invited them to come look at a horse she had for sale. The Lucases didn't buy the horse right away, but Melby invited them to come ride, and when she saw Sam and their pony together, she said, 'Do NLBRA'. Thinking they could just try a few rodeos, the Lucases started entering Sam and Allison into Little Britches rodeos in South Dakota in 2009. Sam and Allison qualified in 2010 for the NLBFR, driving 17 hours to Pueblo, Colo., and Sam won the Little Wrangler World Championship in pole bending on Annie. It was the finishing touch to the Lucas family's dive into rodeo. They signed up for high school rodeo on their way home from the NLBFR.

After several years of crossing the state line into South Dakota to do Little Britches rodeos, the Lucases decided to start a franchise of Little Britches in their home state. They hold many of their rodeos at Lee Mar Ranch in Granite Falls, Minn. "We've had a lot of people join from the Minnesota Rodeo Association (MRA), the WSCA, and the Sioux River and Flandreau Little Britches franchises," Laura explains. "We share Little Britches sanctioned stock contractors and judges. Our hope is to also bring in kids from high school rodeo to compete."

Allison finished her last year with Little Britches in 2013. Mckayla was the 2014 NLBFR Senior Girls Pole Bending Champion. She also competes in barrel racing, goat tying, and team roping, as well as cutting in high school rodeo. Her sister Jacqueline will be joining her in the senior girls division next summer. "I think it will work good," says Mckayla. Her mom adds, "If we can't support each other as a family, then we're not going to compete against each other. We're a family and we're going to compete together as a team." Jacqueline's events are pole bending, breakaway roping, goat tying, ribbon roping, barrel racing, and team roping. She will be a freshman in high school, and switched from public school to a private school with just 16 people in her grade.

Sam competes in flag racing, goat tying, and break-away, ribbon and team roping. He loves to snowboard and goes bow hunting with his youth pastor, and is known to show up for drum practice at his church in his cowboy hat and boots, since he's usually coming from a rodeo or going to one. His secret to living with four sisters is, "Help them out, get out of their way, and spend a lot of time with Dad." Being the only boy has its responsibilities, of course, like putting bugs in his sisters' beds or hanging Lydia from a doorway by her ankles with duct tape.

Lydia's events are goat tail untying, barrel racing, pole bending, and flag racing, with pole bending being her favorite to compete in. She competes wearing her favorite hat made by her aunt who owns Do Not Conform Hat Company. Lydia and Sam were homeschooled for several years and are now attending the same school as Jacqueline. Lydia is a third grader and enjoys reading.

Rodeo is now the Lucas family's one hobby. Rich uses all his vacation time to go with his kids to their rodeos. "When the kids first got into horses, I had no time for it at all. All I could think about was what I needed to get done at work," says Rich. "The Lord really changed my heart. I talked to my friend Larry Jansen who has two girls in barrel racing. He said 'The best thing I've ever done is have those girls in my truck, be their coach, and they think I'm cool.' Now that's all I think about - spending time with my kids." 🇺🇸

Thank You

by Robert Lay

This past spring I had to make one of the hardest decisions I have ever had to make, but with a lot of thought and prayer I made the decision to not run for NLBRA board President. I truly loved serving the association in that position, but for pure personal reasons I needed to make a change. I am still on the board and excited to be working with the youth board and wherever the new Leadership directs me. With all that said I appreciate all the support from every member and family in this association. I am not going anywhere just changing roles.

In the years as president we had many advances in technology for our members, scholarships and in the growth of franchises. I cannot take credit for any of this but I am proud to be part of the team that made those advances. Our scholarships account is now self-funded through investments the board has made, and this year we added $20,000 in scholarships for outgoing members. Our secretary program is rolling and working very well, and having true online entry was a goal I had from day one. We have grown in states we have never been before and lit fires in states that maybe lay dormant for a few years. All of this was because you as members elected great people to the board, and having a great National office staff to help our members.

I want to say thank you for giving me the opportunity to serve you as President and board member. I wish the leadership nothing but success to carry on the growth and advances we have made. See everyone down the road and have a great rodeo year.

Introducing Dallon Sagers

by Dallon Sagers

Wow. I can't believe that it has been a month since Finals ended. Time is flying by so quickly.

I wanted to take a minute and introduce myself to all of the NLBRA members and families. My name is Dallon Sagers. I was elected to be the new President for the NLBRA Executive Board during our board meeting at Finals. I have served on the board for a number of years and am excited and honored for this new adventure and opportunity. I live in Moroni, Utah and have been involved with the NLBRA since my daughter, Shawnee, joined almost 10 years ago. I truly believe that this is a great rodeo association with a bright future, that is why I am excited and willing to serve as the board president.

I have only been serving for a short time and am already beginning to realize the magnitude of this position. I want to thank those who have served before me for doing a great job and for helping me make the transition into this position.

I hope that all members and families in the NLBRA know that I am here to serve you and this association in the best way that I can. If at any time you would like to talk with me please feel free to contact me and I will do the very best I can to help answer your questions. I am looking forward to the next year and I am sure that it will be a busy and exciting one.

Little Wrangler World Champions

Presented by:

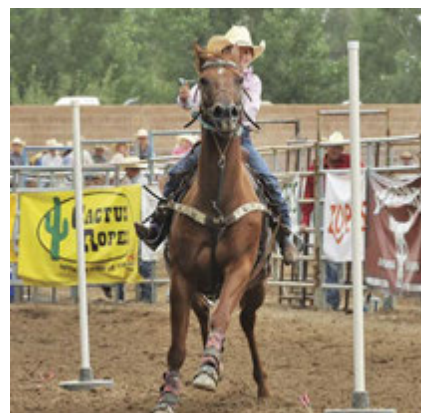

BRYCE JENSEN

Little Wrangler Goat Tail Untying World Champion

Bryce Jensen traveled 18 hours from his home in Huntsville, Tenn., to Pueblo, Colo. for the third time, and returned the Little Wrangler Goat Tail Untying World Champion - his first world title. The nine year old came with his parents, J.O. and Becky, and his 11-year-old sister, Savannah, who competed at the NLBFR in pole bending and barrel racing. They also enjoyed several water balloon fights. Bryce's favorite event is goat tail untying, but he also competes in barrel racing, pole bending, and flag racing. He rides three horses for his events - Comanche, Frosty, and Mojo. Bryce plays Little League baseball in the spring and fall, and he is a fourth grader at Madisonville Intermediate School, where math, P.E., and recess are his favorite things in school. He is thrilled with his new saddle and buckle, and plans to do Little Britches for many years to come. 🏆

Bryce Jensen

Olivia Thibodeaux

Little Wrangler Pole Bending World Champion

Pole bending is Olivia Thibodeaux's favorite event, and she won the world title weaving the poles on her favorite horse, Colonel. This is eight-year-old Olivia's third year in the NLBRA. She is the oldest of four girls, and her sister Lane is a Little Wrangler this year, with Isabelle and Sammi likely to join when they are old enough. Olivia and her parents, Neil and Rebekah, split their drive from Churchpoint, La., into three days. They stopped in Livingston, Texas, along the way so Olivia could compete in the Polk County youth rodeo, where she won the pole bending before going on to capture the same title at the NLBFR. Olivia also competes in flag racing, barrel racing, and goat tail untying. After her whirlwind summer, she is now starting third grade, being homeschooled by her mom. 🏆

Little Wrangler Barrel Racing World Champion

Chloe Little has had an incredible summer. The eight year old from Orange, Texas, won the barrel racing at the NLBFR - her first world title - which topped off her win at another youth rodeo association's finals that she competed in before going to Pueblo. There, she won a horse trailer and a saddle. She placed first in the barrel racing at the NLBFR on her horse, Charlotte, and also competed on her horses Jasper, Ibee, and Pumba. Chloe made the 17 hour drive with her parents, Lance and Cara, and her brother, Chance, who also competed in Pueblo. Chloe passed the time between performances taking part in several water balloon fights and riding her bicycle. When it's time to compete, Chloe always recites Psalm 37:4, her favorite Bible verse: "Delight yourself in the Lord and He will give you the desires of your heart." 🏆

MITCHELL MILLER

Little Wrangler Flag Racing World Champion

Mitchell Miller has been competing in Little Britches since he was five. The eight year old competed at the NLBFR for the third time this year and came home with his first world title in the Little Wrangler Flag Racing. Mitchell's sister, Kaytlyn, also brought home several titles in the junior girls division, and their brother, CJ, competes with the senior boys. Their parents, Jodi and Heath, drove them to the finals from their home in Dameron Valley, Utah, along with a trailer full of horses. Mitchell has three horses - one for each Little Wrangler event he competes in - named Ketchup, Shorty, and Jack. Mitchell is looking forward to riding in his champion saddle once his legs are long enough for the stirrups, and he hopes to come home with many more champion saddles as he continues to rodeo with the NLBRA. 🏆

Sydney Blevins

Sydney Blevins was involved in a riding accident August 17 and spent a week in ICU. She sustained multiple fractures to her jaw, a fractured skull along with bleeding and swelling of the brain. Thanks to prayer, she is now resting at home. Long term, she is expected to make a full recovery and the family is adjusting her school schedule to accommodate her continued recover. They are raising money "Let's help Sydney" <http://www.gofundme.com/261700>

- Nic Dorenkamp

story by Scott Dorenkamp

Having rodeoed since she was five, Courtney Singleton is now looking forward to continuing her rodeo career in the college ranks.

Courtney's six year CJRA career has come to a successful close with the completion of the finals in Lamar, Colorado. She won the first go, second in the second go, and fourth in the average in the goat tying. She also won the second round in the ribbon roping and third in the average with her partner Trevor Schnauer.

She ended the year third in the goat tying, third in the ribbon roping, and seventh in the mixed team roping heading standings.

Courtney is attending Otero Junior College and is in the Nursing Program. She will rodeo for coach Lindsey Sumpter and will tie goats, breakaway rope, and team rope. She received, through the CJRA, the OJC Scholarship and the Lamar Elks Scholarship. She also is receiving the Kaiser-Permanente Scholarship.

Courtney's goals are to keep her priorities straight by keeping her life in order and being successful. This includes qualifying for the College National Finals Rodeo in her events and completing the Nursing Program.

Her family is the most important element in her life and she cannot express enough thanks to her brother Trevor, sister Kelsey, and mom and dad Sandy and Chad for always supporting her in all her endeavors. 🏆

Meet the Member Madison Story

- Brian Maloney Photography

story by Rachel Hummel

“I’ve grown up around horses, so being able to compete in a sport that centers on them is perfect for me. And when I’m out there in the arena competing, I get this feeling that I can’t even describe, but it’s a feeling that I only get from rodeo,” says 13-yr-old Madison Story from Bayfield, Colo.

This upcoming season will be Madison’s second as a member of the CJHRA, and she has high hopes for what it will bring.

Madison competes in the barrels poles, and says that her goal is to make it to nationals in both events this year. “I have faith in my horse and in myself, and I know that we can do it.”

Madison is also a member of the National Barrel Horse Association. In addition to rodeo, Madison’s favorite pastime is trail riding. “I love going up in the mountains for a couple of hours, just my horse and me. It’s usually the first thing I want to do every morning.” When it gets too cold and the snow starts to fly, Madison still loves going on adventures in the mountains, but prefers to do it on a pair of skis.

Her real passion outside of rodeo is photography. “I’ve always loved taking pictures and trying to capture a certain moment. I would love to study it in college one day and hopefully I can make a career out of it. Before that though, I’m trying to get as much experience as I can now, helping out some of the local photographers.” Madison will help with photography at local sporting events, which has the benefit of being able to photograph her younger brother Mitchell when he plays. She also enjoys photographing nature and wildlife in her area.

Another goal of Madison’s is to travel around America, visiting all 50 states. “I’ve been to about nine so far, so I have a long way to go,” she says with a laugh. “Right now though, the state I want to go to next is Florida. I hear it’s absolutely beautiful with all of its beaches and I can’t wait until I see it.”

Through college, and hopefully after, Madison plans to stay involved in rodeo and, if she can, would love to join the pro circuit one day. Madison’s love of and desire for rodeo has always been due to family. “Going to the rodeos with my whole family has always been a huge part of what makes them so fun. My parents, Cody and Shannon, are always there for me to cheer me on and help me get better.” It was Madison’s cousins though, the Chumleys who first got her started in junior high rodeo, for which she is very grateful.

Madison says that more than anything she is just excited for this season as well as the seasons to come after. “The best part about these rodeos is the competition, and how that competition can turn into a friendship.”

Meet the Member Laramie Noble

story by Rachel Hummel

“Rodeo has been a part of my life since I can remember. My dad rode bareback horses and competed professionally, and my mom has competed on the pro circuit my entire life. My first time on a horse was when I was three days old on my first day home from the hospital,” says 17-yr-old Laramie Noble.

Laramie has been a member of the CSHSRA for two years and competes in the barrels, poles, breakaway, and cutting. In addition to high school rodeo, Laramie competes in various other rodeo organizations, which are not limited to the United States Team Roping Championships and the Wrangler Team Roping Championships.

Laramie says that there is not much that holds her interest outside of rodeo. “In school I’m a member of the FFA, which I love, but there isn’t much besides that. I devote almost all of my time to either rodeos or practicing for the rodeos. I do love to attend the sporting events at school though. I don’t have the time to join one of the teams, but I really love to go watch the football and baseball games.”

Laramie does admit though that she also really loves to sing. “It’s not something I talk about very often, since I try to stay humble and it can be a little awkward, but it’s one of the few things that I know I can do well. I especially love to sing any type of Stoney Larue song.”

No matter what though, rodeo is her passion and practicing is the first thing Laramie does every morning. “I love waking up early, when it’s still a little dark and the grass is dewy, and going out to rope the dummy. It just gets me fired up.”

Another thing that gets Laramie fired up is her future. “All I have ever wanted, since as long as I can remember, is to go to Texas A&M. When I do get there, I want to study equine rehabilitation. And of course, I want to continue with rodeo for as long as, and to the highest level, I can.”

For this next year, Laramie’s goal is to win a state championship in the barrels. “This past year I became a lot more competitive and have been consistently towards the top. I really believe that this year I can make it happen. I would also love to make it to nationals in my other events.”

Laramie gets much of her work ethic and drive from her role models, the biggest of which is her mother, Jennifer. “She is an amazing woman. She is well-spoken, and well-regarded and always encourages me.” Other members of Laramie’s family include her father, Adam, and her little sister Paige.

Laramie also looks up to Sherri Cervi, “...for being such a class act and always remaining poised...,” as well as Trevor Brazile, “...because he has accomplished so much. I also love that he is so strong in his faith and so willing to share that.” Laramie is also grateful to Sabrina Ketcham and Kelly Conrado for all they have done for her.

And while she loves the competition, Laramie’s favorite part of rodeo is how it can bring so many people together at once and can teach them so many things. “With other groups, at other sporting events, you see a lower level of responsibility and work ethic. But at the rodeos, the kids really try to be respectful and honorable, and I believe that the western way of life and the rodeo atmosphere is a big part of that.”

Travis and Hank Bounds

story by Magie Downare-Nevius

The Bounds brothers, Hank and Travis, are standout team ropers within the Colorado Pro Rodeo Association (CPRA). While Hank is currently working his first year as the team roping director on the heading end, Travis is headed into the finals seated third in the standings. “Rodeo has influenced our lives by bringing the two of us closer together. It’s a passion that we share in both roping and horses,” said Hank.

Team roping is far more than a passion for the Bounds brothers, but is a part of their lifestyles. Having grown up around the event, as their dad (Mike) competes on both ends, the pair have had a rope in their hands since they were old enough to walk and were riding horses with their dad even before then. Along with their sisters (Jennifer and Jill), junior rodeos and the National Little Britches Rodeo Association became the first step toward their careers. “Mom and Dad bent over backwards to make sure that we were mounted and could go,” said Hank. “We are very blessed with great family support, which is crucial in rodeo.” Even though their sisters put their own competitiveness aside to raise their families, they continue to be involved through their own children who compete. Although their mom (Brenda) is not a rodeo athlete, Travis describes her as being one of their biggest advocates. “She is a huge supporter. She has always been there to push us and wants us to do good, while putting us first above anything else,” he said. “All around, though, it’s great to have a family that backs us.”

Travis, 29, has been a member of the CPRA since 2003, when he was crowned the Rookie of the Year on the heeling end. “It’s a great association with good people; the secretaries are nice, the committees are good to work with, but most of all, it’s all about the cowboys, which is the way it should be,” he said. While Travis had primarily stuck to the heeling box most of his life, he was talked into making the switch to the heading side in 2008 and walked out with his first CPRA year-end title, along with qualifying for his first Professional Rodeo Cowboys Association (PRCA) Mountain States Circuit Finals (member since 2003). Since that time, Travis has gone on to qualify for the circuit finals three additional times and won the year-end title last year to qualify for his first RAM National Circuit Finals. He has, also, gone on to win the CPRA year-end title in 2010 and 2013 with partner Wade Kreutzer (2012, 2013 CPRA heeling year-end champion). The duo have teamed up for the past three years, which all started through conversation. “Once we decided to rope together, it just took off and we’ve done pretty good,” said Travis.

Prior to hitting the road, Hank, 33, was originally satisfied with jackpot team roping. It was through Travis’ impact that he decided to join the CPRA in 2005. “I fell in love with it from the get go and it is where you’ll find us almost every weekend,” he said. Working the other end, Hank grew up predominantly heading, but made a change to heeling back in 2003. "I didn't have a reason, I just did it," he said. He later joined the PRCA in 2006 and is a four-time circuit finals qualifier. In his first year as the director, Hank says that he has truly enjoyed learning the ropes from behind the scenes. "It's been a learning experience for sure. I've gotten to know all about the thankless jobs that goes into the whole thing," he said. "The CPRA is completely full of people that volunteer to making a better association, which I've gotten to know how much time goes into it. The fact that people are willing to put so much effort into making the sport better is really great." Starting his reign, Hank had set out to get more people involved through sponsorships and attendance. "Of course more sponsors make for a better finals, but I feel that keeping an open communication with the contestants, communities and board members will help in the long haul. I've had some great help in working with Branden Edwards [heeling director] and Chelsie Willhoite [mixed team roping director] to expand on those goals," he said.

Travis and his wife (Laura) are graded competitors in the mixed team roping with a current position of ninth in the CPRA. "I love the fact that I can travel with my wife to all of the rodeos," said Travis. The couple celebrated their first anniversary in May and the CPRA is the source of their relationship, having met at the San Miguel Basin Rodeo in Norwood, Colo., seven years ago. "She is the biggest reason of why I'm still able to rodeo. She is so supportive and urges me forward," he said. Making a home in Grand Junction, Travis has made his living as a farrier for nine years and says that kids are definitely in their future.

On the other hand, Hank and his wife (Ashley) are proof that opposites attract. Ashley is a retired professional snowmobile racer and had very little experience with horses prior to meeting Hank. "We are a very neat combination of two different worlds, but she is very supportive through her own knowledge and experience as a competitor," he said. The couple were married back in February and have begun meshing each other's worlds at their home in Grand Junction. "She's got me riding snowmobiles and I've got her riding horses, where she found a passion she didn't know she had," he said. "We hope to have her start competing in the future, but it is a slow process, as we are focusing on learning the basics before jumping in.” Hank makes his living with Western Colorado Waste. “I love my job. I work for great people that understand my passion and give me time to compete,” he said. For the past eight years, he has worked in the service part of the oil and gas industry, but the booming production of the field on the opposite side of the Western Slope has caused Hank’s rodeo season to slow down as he is presently overlooking the servicing of another division in northern Colo. “I realized that we are planning for our future and I needed to take my work more seriously,” he admitted. Because he is unable to hit the road as hard as he would like, Hank generally ropes with partners that are available. “I rope a little bit with everyone, because I’m not going all the time, it’s not fair to commit to a single partner, so within the CPRA I try to find someone that is more on the same work schedule at the time,” he said.

Having two separate lives does not keep the brothers from getting together to rope. While still hitting jackpots, a few rodeos and practicing with their dad, the siblings partnered within the CPRA in 2011 to qualify for the finals and won the average. “The best times in our sport are often found between rodeos. It’s a great family sport, which we are lucky enough to share with each other,” said Hank.

To finish out the season, Travis hopes to have a good finals and get his chance at another year-end title. “I would love to get another title under my belt, but if that doesn’t happen, there is always next year,” he said. Hank would like to wrap up his first season as the director giving it his best. “I set out to put my best foot forward and try. In a volunteer position, it is easy to let responsibilities slip, but there is always something that could be fixed or made better. I just want to make sure to talk to the contestants and with the continued support from Nell Richie [state secretary] and Don Scanga [president] we can keep the communications open to succeed in this,” he said. 🍷

- We're all at State Finals – The next issue of the News will have pictures and final results; watch for it.

It was a great summer; with minor bumps in the road – I think the new board is realizing just how important their position is and they have all stepped up and handled the job with efficiently. It takes dedication to keep an origination as large as ours running anywhere close to smooth, and the volunteer phone hours along with drive time to meeting that are never convent; to handle association business is much appreciated. Our members in Grand Junction have involving themselves more than ever – They'll have water and drinks at the brunch and in the rodeo office; just to mention a few things going on.

We may have to give an award to the Director(s) that got the most sponsorship money – The Team Ropers have helped two events besides their own. I hope each and every one of you at finals send a thank you note to the sponsor of your event – you have no idea how hard it is to get that added money; coats ---

Thanks to the hard work of Matt Weber – he got a sponsor so we can give the Pick-up Men; Bull Fighters and Judges a small raise this year.

Off to finals, see you there!

Ride Safe, Nell

Meet the Member Teigen Finnerty

story by Siri Stevens

Teigen Finnerty is a senior at Wheatland High School. He is playing football this year, after taking a year off. “I really like our new coach, he knows how to have fun and be serious with the kids at the same time,” said the 18-year-old linebacker and running back. He admits that he doesn’t get as much practice time in rodeo, but football keeps him in shape.

One of the things that sets Teigen apart from the rest of kids in high school is his beard. He decided four years ago to grow one and he fell in love with it. “Other kids have tried but they can’t do it and they have to shave it off.” He plans to keep it as long as possible.

Teigen competes in team roping, calf roping, and steer wres-ting. His favorite is a tie between steer wrestling and calf roping. “I trained my mare and she’s just another level up and it’s ten times more fun. I’m riding my dad’s good horse in steer wrestling and he knows his job.” Teigen’s dad, Dean, still competes in steer wrestling, concentrating on local amateur and circuit rodeos. He has been competing for 30 years, which is where Teigen got his start. “I started bulldogging three years ago,” said Teigen. “I chute dogged and slid the dummy at my dad’s bull dogging schools, but I wasn’t into it until three years ago, and I started jumping a few. I’ve been successful since then.” Teigen’s grandfather, Jack Finnerty, has been involved in rodeo his whole life and still serves on the Wyoming High School Rodeo board.

Teigen hopes to make another trip to the high school finals, and go on the college rodeo. “I have had a few coaches call me to come look, but I haven’t gone to any colleges to see them yet.” He is planning to get a welding degree and add business in there somewhere, but he mostly wants to rodeo. “I want to make the College Finals and then go on to the NFR. My dad was 16th two years in a row and I’m going to try to beat that.”

Teigen has one brother, Tell, who prefers taking rodeo photos to competing. 📷

DON KING DAYS

Sheridan, WY

Don King Days has been a Labor Day weekend staple on the Sheridan, Wyoming, calendar since 1989. That's when a local group of ranchers and ropers decided to organize an event to celebrate the equestrian traditions and heritage of the Sheridan area.

When it came time to choose a name for the event, the organizers agreed that one man embodied what they wanted to celebrate. That man was Don King.

Don King was a cowboy, horse trainer, roper, world renowned saddle, rope and tool maker, artist, craftsman, entrepreneur, husband, father, grandfather, gentleman, and friend. For all these things, he was revered, respected and admired.

Not only did Don King lend his name to the celebration, he graced it with his humble presence for eighteen years and embraced every minute of it.

On this twenty-fourth anniversary of Don King Days, the spirit of the occasion is alive and well and will endure. And so will the wonderful memory of our friend, Don King.

~ Tom Ringley

Merritt Harris is the 26th Don King Days champion, his first title

Will McBride won the Wyoming Steer Roping Assn season title, Coy Thompson was second..

Merritt Harris, from Douglas, Wyo., has been tripping steers for 18 years. "I used to high school rodeo and a little college rodeo, but I quit to get my business going," said the 55 year old, who is a financial advisor for Edward Jones "I've always enjoyed watching it and I wanted to be a part of it. It's a family trait, you might say. My granddad (King Merritt) was a world champion back in 1943. My Uncle Hyde provided cattle for Cheyenne Frontier Days and produced the King Merritt Memorial and the National Finals Steer Roping in Laramie for years. My cousin Chip used to rope steers and now produces one of the best horse sales in the country (Come to the Source), in fact his bloodline traces back to Blue Valentine, an outstanding tripping horse." He couldn't do what he does without his wife's continued support. She allows him to practice when he needs to and lets him keep going even though financially it doesn't always pencil out."

As a first time champion, he attributes much of his success to the purchase of a seasoned horse last winter and his "Harold Bumgardner" secret to success - tie 'em down.

Mattee Pauley

story by Lily Weinacht

Mattee Pauley has followed in her family's bootprints and competes in rodeo like her parents and older siblings. She joined the SDHSRA as a freshman and is now a senior. The 17 year old from Wall, S.D., competes in barrel racing, pole bending, goat tying, breakaway roping, and team roping as a header. Her favorite event is breakaway, especially since she and her horse excel at it together. Mattee's motivation to rodeo comes from a genuine love for the sport and having a definite competitive streak. "My mom really pushes rodeo for us and has always gotten us where we need to go and made sure we practice and work hard." She adds, "I also look up to my brother, Jesse Bail. He has made it to the NFR in the saddle bronc riding and bull riding, and I've gone to Las Vegas several times to watch him. It's always been my dream to compete in the NFR someday, and I think what Jesse has done is awesome!"

Mattee, her sister Emilee, and their mom, Bunny, live several miles outside of Wahl. Bunny does day work for neighboring ranches. Their family time is often going to rodeos, which their mom always takes them to. Mattee has two older sisters, Tracy and Mazee, and her younger sister, Emilee, is 15. Emilee is starting high school rodeo this year, and the sisters often practice together, running the chutes or heeling for each other when they team rope. This year for high school rodeo, Mattee roped with Herbie O'Daniel. When it comes time to practice, the sisters have what they call a barrel patch to run their barrel pattern in, but for their other events they load up three or four of their horses and about six roping calves and take them to the arena in Wall. Mattee's horses are Chubby, and Sleepy, who wakes up when he gets into the arena, according to Mattee. Her family raises and trains all their horses, and Mattee's mom trained Sleepy and coached her when she was training Chubby.

When she's not riding her own horses, Mattee loves to play basketball, and she also takes in several outside horses to train for rodeo events, although she does most of her training during summer break. In addition to SDHSRA rodeos, Mattee competed in 4-H and SDRA rodeos, and she and Emilee joined the NLBRA this year. Now that rodeo season has slowed down, Mattee is back to school at Wall High School. She admits that she enjoys seeing her friends more than being in class, but she does hope to start college next year. "I'd like to go to college either in Wyoming or Montana and college rodeo, and maybe even pro rodeo, but I'd like to see how college rodeo goes first. I'd also like to study for becoming either an elementary teacher or a special education teacher."

Mattee has come very close to making the SDHSRA finals every year, and her hope is to qualify this year. She enjoys competing in the Fall High School Showcase Extravaganza, and especially loves competing in the rodeos in her hometown. "It might be because I practice at that arena almost every day, but I always do really well at the Wall rodeos!" When she is getting ready for a rodeo, Mattee says, "My mom will come and talk to me and remind me about what I need to do, and then I just stay focused and do the best I can." 🐾

With the highest performing, scientifically engineered new & improved SMx Air Ride Saddle Pad.

The larger beads also allow for 12% more energy absorption and 5% more pliability; making this pad absorb more shock while protecting your horse's back. Energy is spread over the whole pad, preventing uncomfortable pressure points.

Our new & improved Air Ride technology now allows up to 50% more 3-D airflow through the closed cell beading utilized in the pad, keeping your horse cool. The materials don't absorb water, thus providing resistance to bacterial growth.

Same technology used in helmets, athletic padding, sport fields and playgrounds, footwear, automobile seating and more.

Jorden Hollenbeck

story by Terry Rhodes

Being born into a serious rodeo family, it was pretty much a foregone conclusion that Jorden Hollenbeck would compete in rodeo in some fashion.

And so it is with the 20-year-old daughter of Todd and Pam Hollenbeck. She has been in the Mid-States Rodeo Association for the last four years and enjoys being part of the organization. “The people are great and the judges are easy to get along with.” Most often she goes to rodeos with her father, also a Mid-States member, and will get to 20 or more rodeos a year. “If we go real hard, I may hit 20 or 30. At Mid-States I only compete in the barrel racing.”

Jorden started learning her roping skills about the same time she learned to walk. “My parents have rodeoed since they were little and I have been on a horse since I was 2 years old. Being born into it, that’s what I love doing. I started competing in junior high rodeo in the 7th grade. In high school I was in the goat tying, barrel racing, team roping, and breakaway. I had a full ride rodeo scholarship to Laramie Community College in Cheyenne.”

She is moving her studies to Mid Plains Community College in North Platte, Neb. where she will complete her work to become a surgical technician. “Both of my horses are injured right now so I don’t plan on doing any college rodeo at Mid Plains. I’m just going to sit out this year and focus on my studies and my grades. When they get all healed up I may college rodeo next year.”

Jorden believes in doing plenty of practice and has developed a serious work ethic that is an absolute must-have in today’s competitive rodeo world. “You have to practice at home like you’re going to win. And if you have problems there, you have to stay there and work things out. You have to practice for a purpose.” When she hits the rodeo grounds, she has single purpose in mind and she will not be distracted from her goal. “When I get there, I have my head on straight and I’m going for the win, that’s what I’m set on.”

Jorden, 20, lives with her family on their ranch 25 miles south of Long Pine, Neb. Besides her parents, she has two brothers, Britt, 13, and Jhett, 8. “They have both started to rope so they’ll be getting into rodeo. Both of my parents families rope, so all this runs in the family.”

She says that her parents have been her biggest influence and the best possible support team. “They have supported me the whole way and have taught me everything I know. They have hauled me to every rodeo you could think of and I’ve rodeoed a lot. They have always been there to help me if I have a problem.”

During this summer Jorden has been working at a feed store until school starts and helps out on the family ranch as the need comes up. Leisure time is spent with friends at the lake tubing, or going to movies, but mostly riding horses. Her plans for the future are to complete the surgical technician studies and then to get some experience in a major metro setting. “Then I want to move back to some place small, like North Platte, have some money and live in a big house like every girl does. Livin’ the dream and rodeoin’.”

Jeremy Stadheim

story by Lindsay Whelchel

Northwest Ranch Cowboys Association bulldogger, Jeremy Stadheim, 39, spends his days enjoying God's creation. That's how he describes his work on his family ranch just south of Reeder, North Dakota. It's a place where he can be outdoors to soak in the sun and avoid the monotony of a desk job. No doubt it's hard work making a living as a rancher, but Jeremy doesn't seem fazed by the task.

"It's certainly pleasant. It pays off," he assures. He runs Hereford cattle and some sheep on the place that's, "big enough to stay alive." That's how he jokingly describes the size of the property.

Jeremy's responsibilities go beyond ranching as a father of five children, and a husband to wife Carrie. The children range in age, but there is his oldest son Pitch, twin daughters Kyan and Kinley, son Stone and the baby Rainn.

The family spends a lot of time on horseback, but it's primarily Jeremy who rodeos. That's his only true hobby in the rare free time he has.

"I just got started team roping and bull dogging when I was in high school. I went to high school rodeos, and when that was over I kind of quit team roping and stuck to bull dogging," he explains.

It's a sport that includes benefits outside of the arena for Jeremy. He does it mostly for the camaraderie, seeing old friends and traveling. He'll typically begin rodeoing around the Fourth of July and not stop until around Labor Day. During that time he'll try to hit as many of the NRCA rodeos as possible.

According to wife Carrie, Jeremy and his traveling partners all are very supportive of one another. "They really do help each other out with everything," she says, and explains that though their ages range, they all pitch in and keep each other's notes and push steers for their buddies. "When one wins, they all cheer. There is nobody feeling sorry for themselves. A victory for one is considered a victory for all."

Carrie is also quick to add that the men are all quality horsemen. "They take good care of their horses. They understand them and ride them so well. They work hard and live simply."

The competition aspect of the sport is another of the perks, and it's proved fruitful for Jeremy, a multiple finals qualifier. He won the finals in 1998 and then again this last year in 2013.

But winning isn't everything, and for Jeremy, the opportunity to do what he loves has greater ties to tradition and the western way of life.

"Society as a whole is getting so far away from rural activities that we're kind of losing touch with what built this country, and I just think that rodeo is one of those things," Jeremy says, and adds of the importance that the sport continues, "it's a good way for kids to learn self-control and competition and how to move forward in life."

And Jeremy would likely agree, that what better way to move forward than on the back of a horse? 🐾

BACK TO THE BASICS

article by Crystal Lyons

The times are changing. Can you feel it? In the near future our lives may never be as they are now, ever again. Not all bad.... some things are good and needed, though change is NEVER easy. It's always a little unsettling to enter the dark and creepy looking "cloud of unknowing" and seek to navigate our way through unfamiliar ground, but that's what's before us.....unfamiliar ground.

You know how it goes when you find yourself in a situation where things just aren't working out like they should? Go back to the basics. Get your perspective "simplified down". So many times, when a horse isn't working right or WE aren't making the whistle or catching 2 heels.....it's some little basic something that we have let slip. And once we see it, we're like..."Who would've thought that simple ingredient could make such a huge difference in the outcome!"

What's true for a competitive event or a business is also true for an entire nation. We've let some things "slip" in this country and a "wreck of sorts" is heading our way. It's like we've crossed an invisible line where at this point, there's no undoing what's been set in motion until it runs its full course. And though I don't at all like the dark clouds I see on the horizon, I know that sometimes it takes a storm to clean the air. A storm is coming to America. It's already upon us. There's no fixing this thing by conventional means, it's too late for that. We're simply going to have to batten down the hatch so to speak and see this thing through.

How do we prepare for what we don't know and can't turn back? Simplify! Go back to the basics. Seek to "simplify" our lives. Get out of debt if at ALL possible. THINK about what you would need to do or where you would need to be IF our country was enveloped in war on our soil, the economy was bust, there was no grocery store with all the familiar items we are so used to having at our fingertips, etc.

It's like this, guys.....when you've worked with cattle or horses long enough, you can SEE a "wreck in the making" and if the person in control of that situation ISN'T in control of the situation, you can fairly accurately predict the result before it plays out. Catch my drift? SIMPLIFY....because a "wreck" is coming! Get back to the essentials of what's important to protect you and your family. Strengthen your relationship with the Lord or if you don't have one now, open yourself up to Him and build one! And remember this... God ALWAYS has a plan to PROSPER His own and that includes a nation as well as individuals if we will seek Him and yield to His directives. And if I'm wrong in my "prediction"...what have we lost?? We will find ourselves strengthened relationally and financially as we go back to the basics and simplify our lives! All problems are not destined to defeat us.....when faced with courage, wisdom and resolve; they often just FORCE us to DEAL with an issue that we've ignored and in the process we come out on the other side stronger and better for it! Getting back to the basics is never a bad idea.

tying, and as a runner for Pake Haun in the ribbon roping.

She lives in Mitchell, Neb., and is an eighth grade student at Mitchell Junior High School. Sports are the best part of school, but math is not her favorite: "it's not my thing," she said. She plays volleyball and basketball and does the long jump in track, and plays soccer in a league outside of school time. Next year, as a Mitchell High School Tiger, she plans on playing volleyball and basketball, but may not go out for track, depending on rodeo.

Her favorite teacher ever is Miss Clark, her seventh grade science teacher, who helped her through some hard times.

This summer, for fun, she spent a week and a half in Oklahoma visiting family, boating, and fishing.

She also spent four and a half days in Martin, S.D., on a youth group mission trip, where she put her compassion into practice. The youth painted houses for disabled and elderly people, and spent time playing with young kids from the reservation. It was her first time on the mission trip, and she loved it. "I thought it was important," she said. "We helped kids who didn't have as much as we do, and we had fun with them." She'd love to do the trip a second time. She is also active in St. Teresa's Youth Group.

In addition to sports, Adeline is a member of the quiz bowl, participated in the spelling bee last year, and does 4-H horse shows.

She has qualified for the state finals both her sixth and seventh grade years.

When she grows up, she'd like to be a nurse or pediatrician, because she loves to help kids.

Adeline has a younger sister, Avery, who is eleven, and a younger brother, Ace, who is eight. She is the daughter of Katie Hobbs and Chad Hobbs. 🇺🇸

story by Ruth Nicolaus

Adeline Hobbs has a giving, servant-like heart.

The thirteen year old cow-girl, a member of the Nebraska Junior High School Rodeo Association, loves to help others, and was able to serve children and the disabled this summer at an Indian reservation in South Dakota.

As for rodeo, she competes in the pole bending, breakaway, barrels, goat

Meet the Member

Ritchie Farnsworth

- John Golom

story by Terry Rhodes

Keeping a positive mental attitude is essential in everyday life, even more important when your passion is riding 2,000 pounds of negative bovine attitude. That's what RMPRA member Ritchie Farnsworth believes and he makes an effort to keep his mind right. "I went to four of Gary Leffew's bull riding schools and that's where I have learned the most. He's very big on teaching you to keep a positive mental attitude. I went from making two rides in my freshman year to qualifying for High School Nationals in my junior and senior years. I was able to apply what he was teaching and make it all work for me." Ritchie has a never give up attitude and believes in the adage that, "The only disability in life is a bad attitude."

"The only disability in life is a bad attitude."

Ritchie competes in the bull riding and has been in the Rocky Mountain association since its inception several years ago. "I like the association because all their rodeos are local and not a lot of travel is involved. You're around good people, both the contestants and the stock contractors are really good to work with. I would like to say 'thanks' to the association for putting on all the rodeos, I know that's a big job, and I appreciate what they do." Ritchie also competes in the PRCA.

He started making his way towards bull riding and rodeo at the tender age of 4. "My Grandpa owned a dairy farm where I could get on calves. And things just took off from there. I did some junior rodeo and I competed in high school rodeo. After high school I went into the Rocky Mountain association and started traveling to some PRCA rodeos."

Keeping a clear head and not over thinking the ride is how Ritchie gets himself prepared to ride. "I don't do as well if I try to think too much about what I want to do. I do better if I just take a deep breath, and go out and try to ride him. I do keep a positive attitude and try hard on every bull and I always want to win." Outside the arena Ritchie keeps in shape and practices on the drop barrel and gets on practice bulls every chance he gets. "...and I like to fight bulls to keep sharp."

The 25-year-old bull rider makes his home in Roosevelt, Utah and has a 3-year-old daughter, Ridley. His parents are Les and Monica and he has two brothers and a sister. "I'm the only one in the family to rodeo." He says that he has had a lot of support in his rodeo career. "My parents have always helped me get down the road and been there for me. But there are a lot of friends and family that have been good about helping me out. I don't think I could say just one person is the most important; they're all important."

During the week Ritchie works in the oil fields as a roustabout. "Most of the time I service the all of the pumping units, change oil, and repair anything that's broken." Leisure time is spent with his daughter and hanging out with friends and family. Goals are to make rodeo a full time job and make the NFR. 🇺🇸

from the President

Welcome to Kansas High School Rodeo! I am your 2014 -2015 KHSRA Student President and I am looking forward to a great year. I would first like to start out by congratulating our National Champions, Beau Peterson was your 2014 National Junior High School Rodeo Champion Breakaway Roper and Cooper Martin was your 2014 National High School Rodeo Champion Calf Roper. Kansas was well represented this year at nationals, way to go team!

- FotoCowboy

Our fall season is underway as our first stop was in Concordia, Kansas. Although the heat was fierce, the competition was tougher and it was a great start to what I know will be a great year. Just a reminder to new members, back numbers must be worn at all times, draw will not be posted until 1 hour before the rodeo begins, and you must stay in western attire until the rodeo is finished.

As a student board we have brainstormed a few ideas that will be going on this fall. At our Topeka rodeo we will have a fun activity for everyone after the rodeo on Saturday. Stay tuned for more information! At our Garden City rodeo we will be having a community service activity. 15 4th and 5th grade boys from challenged homes will be in the stands from 1- 3 during Saturdays rodeo. We are asking everyone to please bring an old straw hat with your autograph on it for the boys to have as souvenirs from the rodeo. Also, it would be appreciated to have members walk up into the stands, shake their hands and introduce themselves, ask how the kids days are going, make sure they are having an awesome time! At Emporia we will be having our yearly canned food drive. A boy and girl member, who bring in the most amount of canned foods will be receiving a prize from the student board. Garden City and Emporia activities are great community service opportunities.

We are looking forward to an awesome rodeo season, I look forward getting to know all of the new families and competing this year! If I can help in anyway, please let me know.

Best wishes,
Paige Wiseman

Rick and Vicki Robison

Standings Presented by:

story by Magie Downare-Nevius

Rick and Vicki Robison have competed hand-in-hand with the Kansas Professional Rodeo Association (KPRR) off-and-on for approximately 24 years, starting in the early 90s when the organization was known as the Kansas State Rodeo Association. “It’s mostly the people that keep us coming back to the association. They get to be your second family and we look forward to seeing them each week,” said Rick, who is currently sitting in the top 10 of the saddle bronc riding standings. Married for 23 of those years, the couple moved into the 2014 season with high hopes of qualifying for the finals. “It has been a long time since we’ve traveled this hard, but we hope to make the finals with our family by our sides,” said Vicki, who competes in the barrel racing.

Growing up in Phillipsburg, Kan., the Robison s attended the same high school, but their relationship did not start until afterwards. “I found him to be annoying back then,” joked Vicki. Raised in the equine racing world, where Vicki’s family owned horses on the track and Rick’s family worked on the training side, each individually started competing in the arena around 1980.

Only two years after his start, Rick was crowned the 1982 National Little Britches Rodeo Association world champion saddle bronc rider. From there, he continued to hit the trail hard, climbing on every bronc available and achieving high honors in additional associations such as the KPRR, Mid-States Rodeo Association and the Nebraska State Rodeo Association, where he was crowned the 1992 year-end champion. Around 1996, Rick hung his hack rein and took a 17 year break from his eight-second ride, but returned to the chutes in 2013 to qualify for the KPRR finals and finish seventh in the year-end standings. “I just got the itch again,” he explained of his comeback. The 49-year-old cowboy is now serving his first year as the KPRR saddle bronc riding director. “I want to be able to take all of the best stock from all of the stock contractors that contribute throughout the season to make the best possible KPRR finals,” he said. When he is not rodeoing, Rick makes his living as a horseshoer for feed lot and ranch horses in the area. “He is very busy everyday,” said Vicki.

Switching to a different kind of race horse, Vicki is a six-time saddle winner within the National Barrel Horse Association and is the Kansas district 04 director. Recently retiring her typical money winner, she is currently working on getting some younger horses going and will use her time with the KPRR to do so. In the off-season, Vicki teaches high school art for grades 9-12. “It’s the perfect job. I get my summers off so that I can rodeo,” she explained.

The 25-year Norton, Kan., residents are the proud parents of two children (Daebra, 30 and Casey, 22). While Daebra took on a different path of several different rodeo queen titles, singing the National Anthem at numerous pro shows and serving six years in the U.S. Army, where she was stationed at Fort Carson in Colorado Springs, Colo., and was a member of the mounted color guard, Casey has begun to follow in his dad’s footsteps and has recently started riding broncs.

Although competition has driven them for most of their married lives, the Robison’s don’t always get the opportunity to travel together, but remain each other’s biggest supporters. “Rough stock riders can hit twice as many rodeos, but we are always there for each other and have a strong family backing on both sides,” they said. RT

Taylor Varner

story by Lindsay Whelchel

Even this summer, when school was out, Taylor Varner was still busy. The 14-year-old cowboy from Mannford, Okla. has spent his time working hard to help his family bale their own hay fields, and he's even busier inside the arena. Taylor competes for the Northeast Junior Rodeo Association in a host of events that includes goat tying, breakaway and ribbon roping, tie-down roping and both heading and heeling in the team roping.

"We bale our own hay, and we get to rope a lot, but we don't get to rope as much as we want to," Taylor explains of his busy schedule. When it comes to his start in rodeo, Taylor says that it was early. "My dad taught me how to rope ever since I could pick up a rope, then we started roping in the junior rodeos."

This was Taylor's first year with NJRA, but he competed in other Oklahoma junior rodeos and Texas junior high school rodeos before this year. So far with NJRA, Taylor has seen the majority of his success in team roping, leading both the heading and heeling points.

He credits his heading and heeling horses with helping him succeed, but his favorite horse to ride is his calf roping horse.

When he's at the rodeos, Taylor enjoys seeing his friends and spending quality time with family, which includes his dad Brian, mom, Brandie and brother, Dalton.

Beyond rodeo, some of Taylor's favorites are country music and steak, and when he does get free time, he likes to hang out with friends at Lake Keystone. He is in 8th grade, and plays basketball on the school team and likes the camaraderie of the sport. But on the subject of camaraderie, Taylor is partial to the friendly nature of his fellow rodeo contestants.

"I like that you can enjoy what you're doing inside and outside the arena," he says of everyone's willingness to help each other out and get along.

Once Taylor reaches high school, he plans to compete in high school rodeo but intends to stick to team roping. Heading is his favorite part of the sport.

Brian describes Taylor as being a hard worker who is willing to help anyone in need. But Taylor is also gracious when it comes to recognizing the privilege of being able to compete in rodeo at such a young age.

"I think it's great for [kids] to be able to go to [rodeos], because some kids don't even have the money to travel and have fun like that," he says of his unique opportunity.

And Taylor is going to go after such an opportunity as fast as he can throw a rope. 🍷

Meet the Member Ethan Wessel

photos: CePRA member, Ethan Wessel
- Foto Cowboy

story by Magie Downare-Nevius

Ethan Wessel was crowned the Central Plains Rodeo Association (CePRA) 2013 reserve champion saddle bronc rider and has returned, in his fourth season with the organization, aiming at a championship title. “I’d like to win the whole deal; the finals and the year-end,” he said. The 25-year-old cowboy is well on his way to accomplishing those goals as he is currently sitting on top of the standings with approximately $2,000 won throughout the season with an approximate $1,300 lead over his closest competitor. “The CePRA has a great family atmosphere, strong competition and is run smooth by great people,” he said.

Climbing over the buckin’ chutes is something that the Marion, Kans., resident is well acquainted to as he started as a youngster in the mutton busting in a jumpstart from his uncle (Raymond Wessel, Wrangler National Finals bull rider and one of only three men who rode Pete Burns Rodeo Company’s Mr. T). “I’ve been around it my whole life,” said Ethan. While neither of his parents (Roy and Brenda) were rodeo competitors, Ethan says that it was their support that carried him to where he is today. “They are very supportive and they try to go to all the rodeos they can,” he said.

Advancement in his events found Ethan progressing to larger roughstock over the years and as a high school athlete competed in the bull riding. By 2004, Ethan expanded his events and was sitting in a bronc saddle. Unfortunately, he experienced a setback in the fall of 2007, when he broke his back during his senior year in the bull riding and was forced to veer away from his true passions. The obstacle was a short lived delay for Ethan and he found his way back to the arena as a steer wrestler for a single year at Pratt Community College. A full recovery found him returning to the bucking chutes, where he made saddle bronc riding his primary event about four years ago, but bull riding remains in his veins as he still travels with athletes (Jesse Schelhammer and Kenny Upton) from the event. Support continues to surround Ethan through his girlfriend (Karli Stucky). The two have been together a little over a year and Karli often hit’s the rodeo trail with Ethan. “She travels with me to almost every one,” he said.

In an attempt to better himself, Ethan is also a permit holder within the Professional Rodeo Cowboys Association and occasionally enters shows within the International Professional Rodeo Association and the American Cowboys Rodeo Association. “I just try to ride as many horses that I can,” he said.

When he is not on the path of rodeo, Ethan has made is living at Rafter P feedlots going on 14 years. “I grew up into the deal. I really like it and get to work with my dad everyday,” he said. “He has taught me so much and the things that I’ve learned from him are things that you’ll never learn in school.”

Meet the Member Cody Anthony

story by Lily Weinacht

Cody Anthony is a saddle bronc rider in the TCRA. The 26 year old from Monahans, Texas, tried his hand at various rodeo events growing up before finding his niche riding roughstock in college. “My dad rode bareback horses, and as a little kid, I always wanted to do that. But then I thought steer wrestling was going to be my calling,” says Cody. In high school, Cody left rodeo for a while to play football and other sports. When he was accepted into Western Texas College in Snyder, Cody was team roping, but soon found himself with a group of roughstock riders, putting a saddle in his arms and telling him he needed to ride broncs. Although Cody was eager from the start, he soon learned that perseverance was the name of the game. “I was young in the sport, and there were a couple of people who helped me get to where I am today, instead of giving up on me after the first 40 times I bucked off. Cody Angland is one of several buddies who watched me get bucked off hard several times in a row at practice, then helped me up and told me to ride another one.”

Once Cody got his boots underneath him, he joined the TCRA and won Rookie of the Year in 2009. He won his first buckle riding broncs in the TCRA, the perfect end to a summer of travelling with his brother, Clay, who was riding bareback broncs at the time. “Riding broncs is just a thrill to me, and I’m always seeking to do better. I was pretty bad at the start and I drove myself to do something that most people didn’t have the faith in me to succeed in. I’m doing much better now. If I take a weekend off to do something other than rodeo, I’m miserable!” He adds, “I want to thank my parents, family, and friends for all of their support throughout my career.”

After graduating from Tarleton State University with a degree in physics and engineering, Cody started 3C Cattle and Construction with his brother Clay and their friend, Colton. Their day might be filled with tasks from building fence to fixing corrals and rotating cattle. Their cattle business is on the rise again after the 2011 drought. “The oil fields have also brought new life into the area and people are sharing the wealth. It’s a good time to be in west Texas,” says Cody. He enjoys setting his own schedule with the family business, which allows him flexibility with rodeos, although he is competing mostly locally this year.

The 2014 rodeo season has gone better for Cody than his 2013 season did. Last year, Cody broke his arm riding saddle broncs at the Denver National Western Stock Show in January, which overshadowed most his 2013 season. This year, Cody is rodeoing with the TCRA, United Professional Rodeo Association (UPRA), and the Cowboy’s Professional Rodeo Association (CPRA), as well as the PRCA on the Texas Circuit. He has been sitting in the top 12 in the Texas Circuit and is working to ensure a spot in the circuit’s finals for the fourth time. Cody loves to travel and one of his goals is to make some longer runs and pursue rodeo full time.

“I started riding broncs at an older age than most people, but I don’t regret my choice at all - I just wish I had started riding sooner! My goal is to qualify for the NFR and make a run at a PRCA world title,” Cody concludes. “I want to go bigger and better and always push on for the best!”

Meet the Member Clint Holcomb

above: Clint Holcomb bull riding
- Double K Diamond Photography

story by Lily Weinacht

Riding bulls is currently Clint Holcomb's greatest pursuit in life. The 25 year old from Tucson, Ariz., started out mutton busting and riding calves and steers as a kid. "When your whole family is in rodeo, you're going to get thrown into it, too, and sheep riding is pretty much how everyone gets their start!" says Clint. He and his older brother, Raymond, also competed in gymkhanas, but they wanted to be like their dad, Joe, and ride bulls. Yet Joe, having competed in all three rough-stock events, knew how brutal bull riding can be. Once his sons were getting to the age where they could start riding full grown bulls, Joe decided to pull them from rodeo and get them involved in other sports. Clint started racing go-karts, then moved up to racing speedway stock cars on dirt tracks. He raced from 2001 - 2008. "I quit racing in 2008 because I couldn't afford it anymore," Clint explains. "But I have to get my kicks and adrenaline rush from somewhere, so since I was out of the house at that point, I decided to start riding bulls in 2009."

Clint competed in open bull ridings for several years, then joined the GCPRA in 2011, choosing the association for its number of rodeos in Arizona. Clint says that his love for bull riding comes not only from being an adrenaline junky, but also because he's a very competitive person. "I also tend to have a slight problem with being a perfectionist," he says with a laugh. "Bull riding is something that I'm far from being perfect in, and there's always something to fix or get better at. Plus, I love the travelling!" Clint was the GCPRA Bull Riding Champion in 2013 and placed in the top five the previous two years. His goal is to win the championship again. "I'm leading the bull riding right now, but we have a really good set of riders battling it out this year."

While Clint would love to rodeo full time, he is currently a "weekend warrior" and carefully saves his money for entry fees and travel expenses. He works during the week as a mechanic at the Pima County Fairgrounds in Tucson. "Anything mechanical that breaks is my job to fix, from tractors to weed whackers." After work, Clint heads to the gym several times a week or works out at home on the balance ball. He will also go ride some of his dad's horses bareback, which uses the exact same muscles as riding bulls. Between rodeos, he will often go to a practice pen on a weekly basis and get on several bulls.

When he has some down time, Clint enjoys visiting with his dad, who lives about an hour away. Joe continues to be Clint's rodeo role model, and Clint calls his twin brother, Colby, his biggest fan. "No matter what I'm doing, whether it's racing or bull riding, Colby is my greatest support," says Clint. Colby is Clint's younger twin and he has cerebral palsy. "He doesn't get to see me ride very much, but when he does, he's the most excited person around. Colby is very positive, and he's a really good guy."

Clint is now working to fill his PRCA permit, rodeoing on the Turquoise Circuit. He is considering moving to Texas and ultimately hopes to rodeo in the PRCA or compete in the PBR. "I know I'm still pretty fresh in the game, but I love bull riding enough that if that's what I could be doing day in and day out, I'd be happy." 🍷

Meet the Member Crystal Kelly

The women's division of the Western States Ranch Rodeo Association is growing stronger than ever thanks to members such as Crystal Kelly of Bruneau, Idaho. The 25-year-old wife and mother of two has competed in WSRRA since 2010, qualifying twice for the National Finals in women's steer stopping and last year on the Crown W women's team. This year she is serving as a WSRRA Women's Division Representative, and competing in the steer stopping and on the Tri-States Team with Jennifer Black, Jess Childress and Becky Lisle. She is also leading the committee for the WSRRA queen competition, which is searching for ranch women interested in competing for the crown and representing the association at rodeos and industry functions.

How did you get started in ranch rodeo, and how long have you been doing it?

My husband, Nathan Kelly, Jr., has always been an avid ranch rodeo competitor, so I pretty much followed in his footsteps. I competed on my first ranch team in 2012, and I've been hooked ever since.

What WSRRA win are you most proud of and why?

At the 2013 WSRRA National Finals I placed second in the long go with the Crown W team, and we ended up third in the short go. I was competing with a team of family and friends, and we had some tough competition!

Who has been your biggest ranch rodeo influences, and what's the best advice that person has given you?

My husband has been the backbone to me competing in ranch rodeos. There's way too much advice there, but his best tips are in the arena right before I throw. Also, my dad, Randy Sherwood, raised me on horses and even though he doesn't ranch rodeo, he supports me. Nathan Kelly, Sr., Mindy Goemmer, Jessica Kelly and Luke Baumeister have all been there one way or another, supporting me and when I get jumbled they help pick me up and get me going again.

How did you learn about WSRRA and what do you enjoy most about the association?

We hit the first sanctioned rodeo and have been members ever since. I really love the idea that we can all work toward something big and have something to show for it. It gives all of these cowboys somewhere to mingle, and it's very family oriented. Once you're traveling to the events it's like a big family. We all support each other and work hard to qualify for the finals.

How does ranch rodeo and competition help you in other aspects of your life?

It helps me when I'm day working and helping on the ranch. I speed up my roping and the way I perform my daily tasks. It has taught me how to also appreciate a good horse and team work.

What is an ideal weekend for you?

Loading up with my husband, kids and good horses and going to another rodeo. We spend more than half our year doing that, but being able to raise my kids around the friends we have at these events is the best.

Name five things you never hit the rodeo road without.

A good horse, my gear, a 45-foot nylon rope and a cooler of drinks.

Tell us about the horse you are competing on this year.

Cash Zan Poco, a.k.a. "PatontheBack," is a 10-year-old American Quarter Horse Association gelding. He's our rock. My husband did a full horse, saddle, bridle trade for him, a horse-for-horse deal. He was a 4-year-old and humped up a lot. After many wet blankets, he figured out that if he's nice to the kids he has an easy life, which he does now. We use him for everything—he's been used at shows, ranch rodeos and to pick up on in the bronc ridings. I'm even busting him out on the barrels now. We officially say he's our son Brody's horse, but we use him every trip to town and at home working. Last year at the finals, my bridle chain broke in the branding short go. I roped and worked him with one rein and he was a saint.

What would you most like to accomplish in ranch rodeo?

I'd like to win the finals with a fun and handy women's team.

How would you like to see the association grow and improve?

The association has really stepped up the last few years, and I love the addition of the women's division. I'd like to see more rodeos in states like Arizona, New Mexico and Texas. There are a lot of great cowboys out there and being able to see all the different styles at the finals would be a fun culture change.

In what associations do you compete other than WSRRA?

I also compete in the Women's Ranch Rodeo Association, American West 4D and ACTRA.

What is your horse and ranching background?

I was raised on horses. My dad roped, packed and shod horses, and I was always with him. I have competed in rodeo since I was a toddler, and I started day-working for neighboring ranches when I was 10. I've worked for horse traders riding colts and for a few northern Nevada ranches. Now I'm a cowboy's wife, so I get to raise my kids in the same lifestyle I was raised.

How do you hope to make a difference this year in the queen contest and grand entry?

Being able to coordinate the first competition for the WSRRA queen is already turning out to be fun. The contest will give us a queen who can represent the association with her knowledge and handiness as a ranch gal. I really look forward to the grand entry showing that the finals is a serious event. I hope that it will catch the eyes of the onlookers and showcase our devoted sponsors.

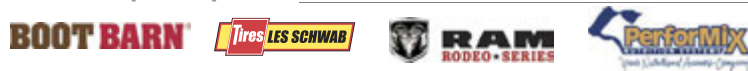

What are the rewards of volunteering in WSRRA?

Meeting the members and hearing their stories is a huge highlight, and making it possible for our everyday cowboys to compete. It's an honor to be part of such an amazing association that promotes the Western lifestyle.

SPURS OR NO SPURS

article by Dale Woodard

Do you ride your horse with spurs while you are roping? For me, it depends on the horse. One of my horses I wear spurs, but the other two I don't. The reason I don't is because these two horses get too close, when I want to throw if I have spurs on. I think it's because I squeeze my legs a little to help stabilize my body when I deliver my rope. This action on my part makes my two horses think I want them to move closer. The other horse of mine has a lot of rate and when I squeeze him, he is just right.

I heard a good horseman say that riding a horse and roping at the same time is hard to do. I agree with this statement. Because when you see men who have won a lot in the show horse world try to rope and ride at the same time they are much less proficient than when they are just riding. I watched some guys rope the sled a while back. The heeler's horse was getting too close every time. About a third of the runs this horse would get his front leg in the heel loop. The rider was frustrated to say the least but you could see why the horse was going past the point. As the horse and rider would get into position, the rider would stand up and squeeze with his legs thus pushing his spurs into the horse's sides and bingo, the horse would respond and move forward about two feet, thus putting he and his rider too close. This is true of headers also. Most people know that one reason head loops whip off is because the head horse runs through your throw. Or the steer lets up faster than the horse can rate off. But it's the same principle and most of the time it has the same effect. Why then would a header wear spurs, especially if your horse has a lot of run?

The answer to these two instances might be pride. You see, cowboys are a rare breed now a days and if you are a cowboy you need your cowboy stuff. That stuff includes a cowboy hat, a long sleeve shirt, wranglers, a belt and belt buckle, a knife, boots and spurs. Maybe these guys feel like they are an incomplete cowboy without their spurs. I don't know but it's a thought. Also, if you hang around good horsemen much, you will hear about the four ounce, four pound and forty pound principle. This principle, when used correctly, instills respect and trust between you and your horse. Too many times I see riders wearing spurs go from four ounces (which is a squeeze) to forty pounds (which is gaping open stabbing your horse with a spur). This action causes your horse to distrust you. I overheard a good horseman tell one of his students, "You don't ride good enough to wear spurs. The only place where you are allowed to wear spurs is in the restaurant and the bar. But when you are out here riding horses with me, no spurs." When I heard this statement it caused me to do a little soul searching. I asked myself, "Am I one of those guys that doesn't ride good enough to rope with spurs on?" The answer I came up with is yes, I am on most horses. And the minute that the horse I'm roping on goes past the point of my delivery, I take those spurs off.

One more thing to consider on this subject is the length of a shank on your spurs. My spurs have about a one and one half inch shank on them. If I were a long legged guy where my feet hung down under my horse's belly, maybe I would need a longer shanked spur. But it might be that a short shanked spur would do the job and maybe eliminate a lot of problems, no matter how long or short our legs are, for us and our horses. Oh yeah, the two guys roping the sled took their spurs off. Their horses were much more relaxed and started giving them good shots and they both went to catching. 🐾

Thanks for the visit,

Dale

FOURTH QUARTER

article by Shay Carroll

My senior year of high school my basketball team voted to have practice before school instead of after. Many of us liked basketball but it wasn't our passion and we wanted to pursue other endeavors in our short time before dark. So each morning we would drag our butts to the gym at 6 a.m. and be ready by 6:15.

was up and back time and time again. I remember thinking I was going to faint when finally he let the team captain shoot five in a row to end practice which he had never done before. The team was lucky he didn't call my name or we would have surely went up and back again.

Our coach had a reason for everything and I remember sitting one day in his office proposing the idea that we ran for free throws at the beginning of practice

Each practice would start with free throws and end with free throws. Our coach would sit on the bench with a scowl on his face as he watched us lazily shoot free throws at the beginning of practice but he never said a word. At the end of practice we would line up on the out of bounds line and he would call out names. We had to make five free throws in a row to end practice. If one was missed it was up and back. I remember one morning in particular. We had lost the night before and our coach was not in a good mood. Free throws had cost us the game and that was one of his biggest pet peeves. He would always say, "They are called free throws because they are free points." When we got to the end of practice we all lined up and started the drill. We couldn't make five in a row to save our life. It instead of the end. I was thinking that the team collectively shot better at the beginning hence I wouldn't have to run as much. I thought I might pull a fast one on him until he responded with, "That would defeat the point. Have you ever shot a free throw in the fourth quarter when you weren't tired?"

The rodeo season is currently in the fourth quarter and there are numerous tight races to make the WNFR. Many cowboys are exhausted but yet find themselves on the free throw line. Their entire year rests on these last few shots before the final buzzer. When I think back to my coach's comment I can relate it to mine and many others situation as the end draws near. They hand you the ball in the fourth quarter and you step up to the line. With the game in the balance you have rubbery legs and heavy arms; would you have rather shot free throws at the beginning of practice or the end? 🏆

CASPER COLLEGE THUNDERBIRDS Rodeo Team

STORY: After incorporating Heel-O-Matic's training systems into our practices, not only did our team ropers and calf ropers improve because of the ability to effectively work on roping and horsemanship at the same time, we were able to see huge improvements in our entire team. Having the machine and dummies has allowed us to take time and money we would normally spend on cattle and invest it in students who compete in our roughstock and women's events as well.

GOAL: "Our goal is to provide our students with the tools and education to help them be successful while they're part of our rodeo program and later on in life."

Meet the Member Pepper James

story by Ruth Nicolaus

Two years ago, after his dad broke both wrists and couldn't go back to his off-shore job, and his mom was diagnosed with cancer, he and his brother Tyler had to help out. Tyler worked for neighbor (and two-time PBR champion) Chris Shivers, and Pepper got jobs done around the place, feeding cows, fixing fence. Any extra money the boys had went to paying bills.

But now things are back on track. His dad's wrists have healed, his mom is cancer-free, and Pepper is enjoying his final year of Louisiana High School Rodeo.

The 17-year-old bull rider began ten years ago on calves, then graduated to mini-bulls, then senior bulls. It's what he's always wanted to do. "I was always fascinated by bull riding and decided that's what I wanted to do when I grew up."

The Monterey, La. cowboy is a senior at Monterey High School. His second favorite part of the day is advanced math, but his most favorite part of school is getting out at noon. He spends his afternoons in the hayfield, helping with cattle, and working for his dad or for Mr. Chris.

The James family raises bucking bulls and has about 130 head of mama cows. For Pepper, his favorite bull is a six year old Brahma named Big Bad Wolf. Big Bad Wolf has bucked in the PBR Touring Pro events and at a few rodeos.

Injuries go along with riding bulls, and for Pepper, his worst injuries have been when he was knocked out. The first time, he was thirteen years old. At seven and a half seconds, Pepper got set back off his rope, and when the bull bucked, he threw him forward, the bull's horn caught Pepper on the chin, and knocked him out.

The second time he got knocked out was one week after the first injury. That time, the bull turned to the left, switched to the right, threw him up in the air, and Pepper landed on the back of his neck.

Pepper's real name is Tucker, but only people who don't know him well call him that. His nickname came from the movie The Cowboy Way with Woody Harrelson. Woody's character was Pepper Lewis, and Pepper liked the name, so he asked his friends and family to call him that, and the name stuck.

Pepper competed at the state junior high finals all three years, and at the state high school finals his freshman year. As a sophomore, a serious cut on his leg prevented him from competing, and as a junior, he was home helping out his family.

After high school, he plans to attend McNeese State University and ride bulls collegiately.

He has four older brothers: Chad (29), Blake (22), Dyllon (21), and Tyler (20.) He is the son of Roy T. and Paige James. 🍀

Zach Harper

story by Ruth Nicolaus

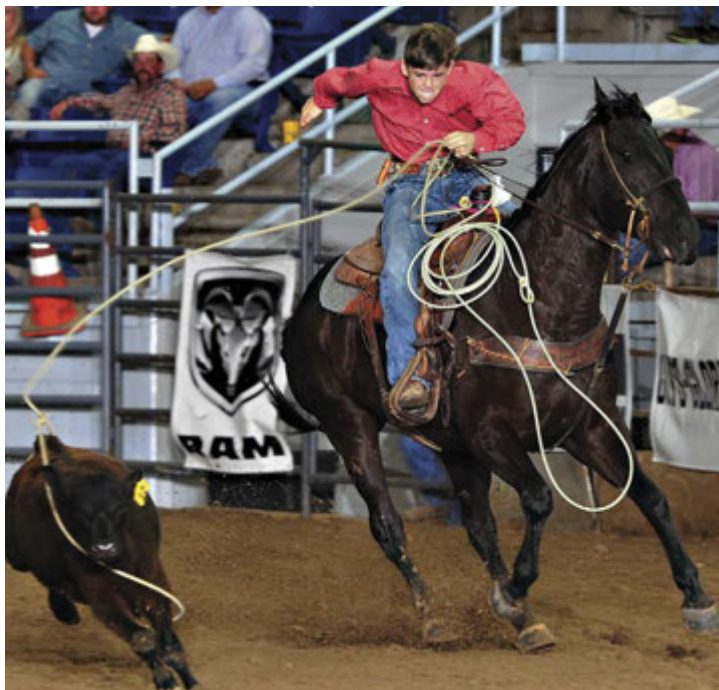

Zach Harper is beginning his final year in the Louisiana Junior High School Rodeo Association.

The thirteen year old, who lives in Hineston, La., competes in the team roping, ribbon roping, breakaway roping, chute dogging, and this year, will add tie-down roping and goat tying to his repertoire.

He rides a seven-year-old black gelding named Magic, who the family has owned since he was one. Magic was trained by Zach's older brother Egan, and Zach has spent the summer working on Magic, getting him better at stopping for the tie-down roping.

He is an eighth grade student at Hicks High School, and even though he spends the summer not thinking about school ("I try not to focus on school whenever it's summertime," he says), he's ready for basketball and baseball. Zach is also a member of 4-H and runs track. He enjoys math and social studies classes.

For fun, this past summer, he roped, spent time in the pool, and enjoyed the National Junior High Finals in Des Moines. Nationals were fun, even though a friend got lost on the grounds and Zach and his mom had to find him.

This was Zach's first time to qualify for Nationals and he went in the team roping. He's been to state finals both years of junior high rodeo, in sixth grade in the team roping, and this past June in all his events.

The Harper family has a variety of animals, including chickens, goats, cows, horses, a rabbit, and a bunch of blue heelers. They keep blue heelers because they're good cow dogs.

When Zach grows up, he'd like to be a professional team roper and qualify for the National Finals Rodeo, or play NBA ball. But if he's going to play basketball, he knows he has some growing to do. The 5'5" cowboy is also trying to put on a little weight to make chute dogging a little easier.

Zach's oldest brother Dusty gave him his middle name, Clay; he was named after the team roper Clay O'Brien Cooper. Zach's younger brother Connor, whose middle name is Jake, was named after header Jake Barnes, with whom O'Brien Cooper won the PRCA team roping championship seven times.

Zach and his brothers Egan and Connor all vie for the title of favorite uncle with Dusty's two children, a daughter, Aribella, age four, and a son, Newt, who is two. "Me, Connor and Egan fight over who's the best uncle," Zach said. The niece and nephew "switch uncles every now and then, depending on whoever's being nicer to them."

He is the son of Wade and Jennifer Harper. 🐾

Tanzi Stafford

story by Ruth Nicolaus

Tanzi Stafford gave a bad horse a good home.

K.C., a 14-year-old roan mare, was orphaned when she was two weeks old, and wasn't well cared for or well fed as a filly. Various people owned the horse, but her bad temper kept her from getting a permanent home.

It was when Tanzi got ahold of K.C. that the horse's life got better. Six years ago, K.C. ended up at the Stafford place, and immediately she and Tanzi bonded. "When I got her, she wasn't mean to me. We connected," Tanzi said.

Now K.C., who is thirteen hands tall, is Tanzi's goat tying horse. She still has a temper, and will try to bite other people, but she won't bite Tanzi. "She's my favorite horse," Tanzi said.

In addition to goat tying, the thirteen year old Louisiana Junior High School Rodeo Association member also runs barrels and break-away ropes. Her favorite event is goat tying, in part because of K.C., and in part "because I get to do most of the work. It's more active than barrel racing."

A resident of Gonzales, La., Tanzi is an eighth grade student at St. Theresa School in Gonzales. School is good, but the best part is socializing with friends. She makes A's and B's and is on the honor roll, and her favorite subject is reading class, because she gets to write. She enjoys writing and being creative. Her creativity extends to drawing, where she likes to do pencil drawings of horses and Disney characters, including Lilo and Stitch and the Frozen characters.

Tanzi plays the wing and post positions in basketball, and when she grows up, wants to do something involving helping animals or kids. She considered becoming a veterinarian, but is not very good at seeing animals hurt or suffer.

At home, she has a menagerie of animals: four dogs, one duck, four chickens, a cat, cows, and three goats. Her favorite pet is Rose, a two year old Australian shepherd she bought with her own money. Rose is Tanzi's dog and follows her wherever she goes.

Tanzi has competed at state finals the last two years, and in seventh grade, was one hole out of making it to the National Junior High Finals in the goat tying. She also competes in the NBHA and made it to Nationals in Perry, Georgia this summer.

Her beautiful name comes from her great-grandfather, whose name was also Tanzi.

She is the daughter of Marcelle and Shai Stafford.

Brooke Allemand

story by Lindsay Whelchel

Brooke Allemand, 22, is embarking on a new journey; that of helping children begin a journey of their own. This fall, she is starting her first year of teaching with her class of eager first graders. But despite the new beginnings, Brooke is determined to keep something in her life that she's done for a long time, rodeo. She knows it will be busy but she intends to make it work teaching and competing in the Cajun Rodeo Association.

Brooke's father Billy competed in CRA rodeos growing up. His parents were rodeo people as well. Now, he's the president of CRA, and Brooke's mother, Gina, is the secretary. She has a brother, Michael, and a sister who also ropes, Ashley.

"I've been doing it my whole life. I started in little horse shows around my house and then got to bigger things; started roping and did high school rodeo in Mississippi," Brooke explains of getting involved in breakaway roping.

Though she dedicated herself to school and graduated from Nicholls State University in Thibodaux, La., this past May with a degree in elementary education, Brooke took to rodeo full force again this year and is set to make the finals in December. Rodeo has taught her lessons she can now use in all aspects of life.

"It's definitely taught me a lot of responsibility and how to take care of things other than myself, and it taught me that you can't always win. Defeat is a part of life, and I just learned to deal with that, because I didn't like to lose, I'm competitive," Brooke laughs.

"My favorite part is the people, the friends that I've made through rodeo and the fact that I get to see them every weekend. The environment is family oriented, and it's a positive environment. Everyone is friendly, we're like family," she says.

When it comes to being an inspiration to her students, Brooke has gotten inspiration of her own from her sister Ashley. "Even though she's my little sister, I've just always wanted to be like her," Brooke says.

"She's very admirable. She doesn't let anything get to her. She's very intelligent. She's one of the nicest people," Brooke says and emphasizes that her sister helps her be easier going herself. "She doesn't hardly ever get mad, and she goes with the flow, and that's what I have a problem with," Brooke laughs.

When asked about her hobbies, Brooke says her answer is always rodeo, but she does like to read. She's a big Nicholas Sparks fan, and she likes spending time with her friends.

She also loves her work as a teacher. "The kids, when they're excited to see you, that makes a big difference, so it's very rewarding," she says. And seeing her students succeed is a win all its own, but she'll still throw her rope every chance she can get. 🍷

story by Lindsay Whelchel

Breanne Burr, 25, is well versed when it comes to the sport of barrel racing. She's been running her horse around three cans for years.

But what she was unfamiliar with was rodeo. This marks the first year the Tri-State Rodeo Association cowgirl has competed in a rodeo setting.

"I've always done barrel racing. When I was younger I did all the speed events like the poles and quads and stakes. I started out in 4H, and they had all the events, and I had a pony and a big horse and have just always been on the back of a horse," Breanne explains but clarifies that beyond 4H and NBHA barrel races, it was uncharted territory.

Breanne, who lives in Vicksburg, Miss., got her love of horses from her mother Shelby who grew up on a pony farm. Her dad Bob was less acquainted with the horse world until his daughter dove head first into it as a child.

She also has a sister, Ashley, but it's Shelby and Breanne's dog that are her two travel companions now on the road.

The rodeo bug has bitten Breanne, enough so that she joined Tri-State to see how she and her main barrel horse Snickers would fare. Snickers is an 8-year-old grandson of the legendary Dash ta Fame and is a horse Breanne trained herself. When it comes to her horses, training is a big part of Breanne's life.

"I've picked up a lot of stuff from a lot of different people," Breanne says of learning the techniques, and adds that she starts the horses out slow and doesn't push them hard until they are around 6. "The biggest thing about training is never be close-minded. I try to be open to different ways. When I ride one I try to fit to their style instead of making them my style. None of mine run the same," she laughs.

Those techniques are paying off. She's at the top of the Tri-State standings and set to make the finals this year in her first rodeo run. Next year she would like to try pro-rodeos. It's been a challenge to have the confidence to compete in the rodeo environment but one Breanne has met head on.

"When you have the rodeo scene, you know whenever you're entering that alleyway that you have to give it your all and try your hardest, because there are no other Ds to fall in if you have mistakes. You know you've got to go in there and make a perfect run and ride hard and just hope it places, because it's straightforward," she says and explains, "at big shows if you have a bobble here and a bobble there you might end up in another D, but it makes you want to get up and hustle and ride," Breanne says of rodeo.

When Breanne isn't running barrels she's enjoying helping others in her work as a surgical technician or relaxing on the lake and tubing on the river. But most of the time, she's on her way to the next race. She just competed, and placed, at the Mega, a large barrel race in Jackson, Miss.

No matter what she's doing though, Breanne focuses on keeping God first. "When things get hard or you're not doing good and stuff is not going your way, my thing is just keep God first. No matter what, even if it's good times or bad times," she says. And it's the good times on the arena clock that Breanne chases hardest. 🏆

story by Magie Downare-Nevius

In her second season with the Junior Southern Rodeo Association (JrSRA), Annie Grace Roach has burst into the pee-wee standings to take a current lead in the All-Around with over $1,000 won. The 7-year-old cowgirl is a quadruple event competitor (mutton bustin, goat tying, barrels and poles) and at the present time, is seeded no less than second in each event. “She really has a passion for it. Win or lose, she is always so happy to just be competing and is very humble about it all,” said mom, Gail.

With the help of her aunt (Yvette Whitesell), who is a veteran Southern Rodeo Association (SRA) barrel racing and break-away contestant, and uncle (Greg Whitesell), who is a former SRA and International Professional Rodeo Association calf roper, Annie Grace’s rodeo cravings began when she was approximately 4 years old. She quickly progressed in the JrSRA to finish her first season ranked sixth in the all-around, third in the goat tying and eighth in the mutton bustin to return home with a handful of buckles and prizes. “I am personally very grateful for Yvette’s and Greg’s help. They have been the best thing in helping her stay in it and love it the way she does,” said Gail. With family holding her same interests, Annie Grace gets the opportunity to travel and compete with her cousins (Kolby, Elly and Cynch Whitesell). “I just love watching her goat tie and mutton bust, but it is truly amazing to see all of those little kids get out there and do what they do,” said Gail. “The JrSRA is filled with so many nice and trustworthy people, that it is a great opportunity to get to know everyone, while still trusting that your child is safe.”

Described as having always possessed an outgoing personality, Gail states that it was the sport of rodeo that brought Annie Grace’s true identity out. “She has never met a stranger and is even very enthusiastic about cheering for the other contestants. I feel that it was rodeo that helped with it all, more so than anything else,” said Gail.

Spending her life in Dacusville, S.C., Annie Grace was adopted by her great grandparents (Gail and Terry). Although Terry passed away close to two years ago, the couple remain Annie Grace’s biggest support system. “Terry was the only daddy that she ever knew and would be so proud of how far she has come,” said Gail. “The only thing that he wanted before he passed away was to see her name changed to Roach on the adoption papers.”

The second-grader at Ducasville Elementary School is out to win the All-Around for the 2014 season, but it seems that she may be able to pull out of the finals with even more. Currently leading the standings in the mutton bustin and peewee pole bending, Miss Roach has also taken a second place position in the peewee goat tying and peewee barrels. 🏆

story by Lily Weinacht

“I just love rodeo in itself,” says Amelia English, APRA member for nine years. “I always have a goal each year that drives me to where I’m going. I’ve got that rodeo bug, and I don’t think I could ever sit at home again! You get started and it’s like this terrible addiction, and you keep passionately doing it!”

Amelia, 30, grew up in New York state. She loved horses like many a young girl, but didn’t come from a family that had animals, let alone horses. When Amelia was four, her dad brought home an old Shetland pony that lived out its last years with the Englishes. A few years later, Amelia was 11 and some friends gave her a retired fox hunting horse, Markey, who taught her many of her lessons about horses and riding. From there, Amelia was exposed to rodeo through friends that competed locally, but she made up her mind that if she was going to rodeo, she would do it as a bull rider. “I went to a Mike Swearingen rodeo school and tried the bull riding,” Amelia recalls. “The first one I tried I fell off of, and that bull stepped on me and ripped my pants off! I said, ‘That’s it! I’m buying a barrel horse!’”

So she did. Amelia and Tex barrel raced locally until Amelia went to college in Pennsylvania at Lancaster Bible College. She boarded her horse and started competing in APRA rodeos. Today, Amelia is a wife, registered nurse, and mother of three, but she still finds time to rodeo. “The only downfall of rodeo is being away from home and not being able to see the kids,” she says. “That can make for a long week, but I love it when they can come with me.”

Amelia and her husband, Tracy, have three sons, Dalton, 12, Chase, four, and Clayton, three. The English family lives in Dalton, N.Y. Their farm is home to numerous horses, as well as a pony each for Chase and Clayton. Amelia and Tracy also own Broken B Rodeo Company, which Tracy formed in 1997. They raise bucking bulls and lease them, as well as putting on bull ridings and providing stock for several Southern Extreme Bull Riding Association (SEBRA) events. They do eight to 12 rodeos a year. Tracy is a former APRA bull rider, having made the AFR 12 times. He also competed in the PRCA Frontier Circuit Finals, where he won his event in 1993 and ‘94, also winning the bull riding at the Dodge National Circuit Finals the same two years. “He is a great motivator and supporter, and my parents are always supportive in every way,” Amelia says.

In addition to running the farm with Tracy and raising their boys, Amelia is a RN (registered nurse) at a hospital, where she works the evening shift three nights a week.

She finds the time to exercise and condition her two horses several times a week. Her gelding, Rocky, has been her main mount for the last ten years, and recently, Amelia added a mare named Dirty to the herd in the fall of 2013. Dirty has proven a quick learner and has become Amelia’s main horse.

Every year, Amelia chooses several goals that she hopes to achieve. “This year, I definitely want to make it to the AFR again, and I’ve been going to a lot of IPRA rodeos, so I would love to continue working on qualifying for the IFR.” She concludes, “At rodeos, I stop before I get on and say a prayer, praising God for my horse and the privilege of being able to rodeo.”

them a helping hand. It makes you think about things differently when you see the consequences of decisions, like not wearing seat belts."

Monty enjoys bow hunting, fishing, helping his friends check cattle, laying on the couch on Sunday afternoons, and watching funny movies. He also gets on his spur board on a weekly basis and does his best to stay healthy. "Over the Fourth of July I tore my ACL, and then recently in New Windsor I got bucked off and jammed my neck and chipped two of my teeth!" Monty says. "I'm thinking about getting into steer tripping. I also really enjoy going to ranch rodeos with a group of friends here. One of my goals is to make their finals." Recently, Monty won the IPRA Pawnee, Okla., rodeo and went to St. Tite in Quebec, Canada, which is one of his favorite IPRA rodeos. "St. Tite has good fans. Those people clap for everyone, including the tractor drivers. You can't set a drink down on the benches where the cowboys get ready, because the crowd stomps their feet so much and make the benches vibrate!" He adds, "I still get nervous about competing sometimes, but I think of Isaiah 41:10 which says '...for I am your God. I will strengthen you and help you; I will uphold you with my righteous right hand.'

Having qualified for the IFR three times, Monty's aim is to win it, a goal he is pursuing with the help of his sponsor, Olathe Boot Company. "I think one thing that has made me successful in what I've done is that I've made goals and trusted God, even when things weren't going the way I wanted. Everyone is different and that's why we've got different fingerprints - we're all going to leave different marks on the world." 🍷

Monty Goodwin has been competing in the IPRA for three years, winning Rookie of the Year in 2011. The cowboy from Weatherford, Okla., saw all the association's rodeos that were close to home and he decided to join and rodeo as locally as he could. For someone who travels more than 2,000 miles a week for work, local rodeos was music to his ears.

Monty, 29, is a bareback rider. The event was passed down to him by his dad and uncles, who used to ride bareback horses. Monty competed in his event on the rodeo teams at both Dodge City Community College and Southwestern Oklahoma State University. He qualified for the CNFR in 2008 but couldn't compete due to a knee surgery. "I like to win," says Monty. "What I enjoy about our sport is that it's a personal deal between you and the animals. It's not about the other guys. Everything will line up right if you do your job. Recently, I've thought about hanging the bareback rigging up, but every year I keep betting on myself. I just wish I had more time to go to the gym and work out so I could really ride at my full potential."

Working keeps Monty quite busy in between weekend rodeoing. He is a representative for Superior Livestock Auction. Monty also delivers cattle all over the state of Oklahoma and parts of Texas and Kansas for Superior. His other miles come from delivering vet supplies to ranchers around Oklahoma through the animal health company that he manages. He rounds out his week volunteering as a fireman. "I've been volunteering for a year," he says. "I went through an EMT training class last spring, and I'm thinking about getting more training so that I can be a full-time fireman. I help people in some of the worst moments of their lives and lend

Big Hat Rodeo SHOOTOUT

Coming to Richmond, KY

story by Lenora Calzavara Nolan

It's been years since the Richmond, KY area has hosted a championship rodeo but the rodeo drought is coming to an end. Big Hat Rodeo Company will be producing the "Richmond Rodeo Days Shootout" on September 19-20 at the Madison County Fairgrounds Arena at 7:30 PM each evening. Two huge performances with a unique and fun twist for contestants and spectators are planned.

Friday's performance will consist of a long go round with all contestants competing and 3 very special rides. One bareback, saddle bronc and bull will be chosen for a "$500 bounty". If the contestant rides he wins the $500...if the animal wins, a local charity gets the cash.

Saturday night the fun and excitement continues with the Top 8 in each event coming back in a short go round that will be immediately followed by the top 2 head-to-head for the championships.

There will also be a one hour highlight telecast of the Richmond Rodeo Days Shootout aired on the IPRA All Access HRTV-1 channel. Contestants will appreciate the $1200 added money in 7 events and $500 in the Girls Breakaway Roping and that'll make for a great payoff. Points from all placings (except the bounty matches) will count for the 2014 IPRA World standings, IFR standings and the Big Hat Championship Series standings.

You're going to love some of the spectacular new stars of the Big Hat herd. Both bull and bronc herds have been outstanding all summer and there are sure to be many spills and thrills for all to enjoy.

The response to the upcoming Richmond Rodeo Days Shootout has been phenomenal with leading community businesses joining our impressive list of partners. Northside Equipment & Bluegrass Stockyards, America's Car-Mart, Miller Tire & Cars of Kentucky, Tractor Supply, Kenny Barger Campaign, Sunbelt Rentals, the IPRA and Barger's Towing are just a few. The rodeo will feature 8 events as well as hilarious family friendly clowns and some fun family activities as well.

A vendor area, mechanical bull, western store and more will all add to the event experience.

Tickets are on sale now at www.bighatrodeo.com and your phone orders are also welcome by calling 815/823-3245. Several of our partners will also be selling advance tickets which will save $2.00 per ticket. Tickets are family priced as well with kids 4 & under FREE, Kids 5-11 just $10 in advance and $12 at the gate and general admission for 12 & over are just $12 in advance and $15 at the gate. A VIP Access ticket in a special section near the bucking chutes are available only online for $25. per ticket and includes a meet and greet with the cowboys and clowns as well as a chute tour at 6:00 each evening. These must be purchased on or before September 16th at 5PM. Go to www.bighatrodeo.com for information on all advance ticket locations and to get your tickets now.

If you have never been to the Madison County Fairgrounds Arena you're in for a great surprise.

The huge indoor arena will hold over 3000 spectators with plenty of space for vendors, concessions, etc... There's plenty of Free Parking as well as room for the contestant vehicles and animals to spread out comfortably. The best news of all is that the Richmond Rodeo Days Shootout will assist a local pediatric cancer organization and there are several great activities planned to raise money for the group.

The Richmond Rodeo Days Shootout promises to be a great new rodeo with plans to be an annual event so whatever you do, make plans now to be in Richmond, KY on Friday and Saturday, September 19th and 20th at 7:30 PM each day for a great night of exciting rodeo action and sensational family entertainment. ■

story by Elisa Swenson

It is a hot summer day. I gaze out the window, admiring and taking in my surroundings. The rolling hills of luscious green grass, the bright blue sky, and the canopy of trees hovering over the road as Wylene Wilson Davis and I drive down the highway headed back to her home in Southwest City, Missouri. Wylene was a judge for the Miss Rodeo USA pageant this year and as my year has progressed I have kept in contact with her. We have come to be fast friends. Wylene is a two-time winner of the Extreme Mustang Makeover, and was also one of the first females to win. The Mustang Heritage Foundation partners with the Bureau of Land Management to put on the Mustang Makeover in order to provide an opportunity to showcase the trainability and versatility of the American Mustang.

I love Wylene because each time I spend time with her, she teaches me something about myself, and helps me grow, and appreciate who I am as a person, from the inside out. She has such a neat perspective on life and I love the many lessons she has shared with me. The other day we were having one of our normal deep conversations about life, and while doing so she brought to my attention a motto she tries very hard to live by. She calls it this motto the three H’s: be hard working, be honest, and be humble.

“I think that anytime that you believe you know it all, is when you have lost.” - Wylene Wilson

It has been through her experience that she has found how vital it is to be hard working because hard work really does pay off. “There is always a struggle before the victory,” she says. Therefore, it is important to remember to persevere, to pick ourselves up and continue pushing on even when things get tough. Horses are ultimately what have taught her to be hard working, and I couldn’t agree more. If there is anything horses have taught me personally it is that we will never grow in our abilities until we are pushed out of our comfort zones.

Secondly, she discovered the importance of honesty through her personal experience with others and within herself. “Because honesty is always the best policy,” she says. Wylene has such a genuine heart and would rather be honest and upfront with those she teaches. She is not critical but constructive and uplifting. She truly desires from the bottom of her heart to help others and see them grow.

Lastly, Wylene strives to be humble. “I think that anytime that you believe you know it all, is when you have lost” she states. She believes that there is always something new to learn and that you can always grow. Being humble I believe makes you more approachable. Wylene’s humbleness is such an amazing quality. She is an open book to anyone who wants to learn and I admire her for that because she only wishes to see the western industry grow.

She may be an inspiration to many as an accomplished horse trainer and clinician, but in addition to her talent of teaching horses, she also has a way with the individual people she comes in contact with each and every day. All in all, the three H’s are just one of the many lessons Wylene has shared with me, she really has forever left her foot prints on my heart. 🇺🇸

We had a Zucchini bread bake off between the staff at the Rodeo News. The judging was difficult, but in the end, both of the recipes below won. "One is a bread and the other is more of a desert." We'd love to hear your opinion of the two recipes listed as well as any other ideas you have for the use of that wonderfully abundant summer squash. Send your ideas to info@therodeonews.com.

CLASSIC ZUCCHINI BREAD

recipe by Siri Stevens

INGREDIENTS:

- 3 eggs
- 1 c oil
- 2 c sugar
- 2 1/2 c grated, peeled zucchini
- 3 tsp. vanilla
- 3 c flour
- 1 tsp soda
- 1 tsp baking powder
- 3 tsp. cinnamon

DIRECTIONS:

Put all ingredients, one at a time, in mixer and blend after each addition. Place dough in two greased bread pans and bake at 325 for one hour. Tips: take the bread out even if the middle is not completely done – it will continue to cook. Once you place the dough in the pan, gently tap the pan on the counter to remove air bubbles. You can freeze the grated zucchini with one cup sugar for baking in the cold winter months. 🍰
